

The Ten Journeys of Vishnu

Rishika Reddy

FROM THE COSMIC OCEAN
TO THE HEARTS OF ALL

A bright blue child named Vishnu, with four arms and sparkling eyes, smiles gently as he watches the world from his celestial home.

A massive, golden horned fish named Matsya guides a small boat through a wild, dark storm on the endless ocean.

A grand tortoise named Kurma swims through the milky sea, steadying a mighty mountain on his shell while many figures churn the waters.

A powerful wild boar named Varaha uses his strong tusks to lift the brown earth gently from the deep, wavy water.

The ferocious man-lion Narasimha bursts out from a golden pillar with a loud roar, scaring the mean king Hiranyakashipu.

A clever little boy named Vamana holds an umbrella and asks a giant, powerful king for just three small steps of land.

The warrior Parashurama, wearing simple forest clothes and carrying a shining axe, walks bravely through the dense green jungle.

A noble prince named Rama, with a curved bow, stands straight beside his brave wife and his brother on the muddy battlefield.

The cheerful dark-skinned cowherd Krishna sits and plays a sweet, soft melody on a bamboo flute, while happy cows listen.

A calm teacher, the Buddha, with a soft smile and gentle eyes, sits under a big green tree and teaches kind people.
