

MIMAY & THE LUMINOUS BUTTERFLY

A Story of Family & Wonder

Mimay's Magical Butterfly

LORIE MAE GAMBOA GALACIO

Meet Mimay, a cheerful six-year-old girl who lives with her loving parents, Tatay Ramon and Nanay Bebe, and her older siblings, Eman and Bernie. She is the youngest in her family and is known for her kind heart and happy spirit.

What makes Mimay truly special is the magical butterfly that hovers just above her head, following her wherever she goes. Whether she is bathing, playing, or sleeping, her fluttery friend is always by her side, sharing in every moment of her day.

The butterfly is like a mirror to Mimay's heart, changing its vibrant colors depending on how she feels. It glows with different hues as she experiences the world, acting as a silent companion that understands her every emotion.

One afternoon, Nanay Bebe asks Mimay about her day at school while they sit together in their cozy home. Mimay proudly shares that her teacher gave her a gold star, her face lighting up with a wide, toothy grin.

A FAMILY MOMENT

NANAY-AGB-AGED FILIPINO MOTHER

Before heading to the market, Nanay Bebe asks Mimay if she can have a kiss and a hug, showing her that her personal space is respected. Mimay happily gives her mother a big squeeze and a sweet kiss on the forehead.

Mimay sits down in the living room to work on her school assignment called the Trusted Adult Tree. Her butterfly glows a bright, happy yellow as she opens her bag and takes out her colorful crayons to begin her work.

Talk to them... Mom, Dad,
Kuya, Ate... or Teacher.

On her paper, Mimay carefully draws the people she trusts the most: her father, her mother, and her older brother and sister. She remembers her mother's advice to always talk to these special people or her teacher if she ever has a problem.

TATAY RAMON

MIDDLE-AGED FILIPINO MOTHER

Suddenly, Tatay Ramon walks through the door with a wonderful surprise hidden behind his back. He presents Mimay with a brand-new doll, making her eyes light up with pure excitement as she reaches out for her new toy.

Tatay Ramon asks Mimay if he can have a hug, and she joyfully wraps her arms around him in a tight embrace. Above her head, the butterfly flutters its wings and glows a brilliant yellow, reflecting her deep sense of safety and love.

The next morning, Tatay Ramon drops Mimay off at the school gate with a high-five and a reminder to be kind and brave. With her yellow butterfly leading the way, Mimay feels confident and ready for a new day of learning and friendship.
