

THE LUMINA TRAIL

Sesame's Adventure in the Magical
Forest

Nam Toh

BY A.R. '23

Sesame the little white bunny hops happily around his cozy burrow, playing with his favorite acorn toys and munching on crunchy carrots. While he feels safe and warm in his familiar home, a small part of him wonders what lies beyond the tall grass and colorful flowers.

Suddenly, Tweety the bluebird flutters down with exciting news about a legendary tree deep in the forest that grows glowing golden apples. All the animals are talking about the magical fruit, and Sesame listens with wide, shiny eyes as his friends chirp about the wonderful discovery.

Though he is scared of the big world, Sesame remembers his mother's hug and her wise words about bravery coming from a big heart. He packs a small backpack with a single carrot and takes his first brave steps away from his burrow and into the shadows of the giant, ancient trees.

At the edge of a wide, sparkling river, Sesame stops and worries that the water is much too deep to cross. Freddy the fox appears and shows him how to hop across the slippery stones, and with a big leap and a splash, Sesame makes it to the other side feeling very proud.

The path leads into a dark, spooky cave that makes Sesame shiver, but he bravely lights a small stick to guide his way. Tiptoeing through the echoes, he remembers his mother's encouragement and realizes that even the scariest places aren't so bad when you carry your own light.

Emerging from the cave, Sesame meets Lila the squirrel, a cheerful new friend who is also searching for the magical tree. They share stories and snacks as they walk together, discovering that the long journey feels much shorter and more fun when you have a friend by your side.

Together, they face a confusing maze of thorny bushes that pull at their fur and block their path. Sesame looks closely and notices bright red berries marking a safe trail, and he leads Lila through the sharp branches until they reach the other side completely unscathed.

A steep, slippery hill stands between the friends and their goal, challenging Sesame's short legs and tired spirit. With Lila pushing from behind and Sesame pulling on sturdy vines, they work as a team to reach the very top where a beautiful view awaits them.

At the summit, they finally find the magnificent tree glowing with golden light and heavy with shimmering fruit. Sesame reaches up with a confident paw to pick a golden apple, and as he takes a bite, he feels the warmth of true bravery radiating through him.

THE ADVENTURE ENDSTHE HERO RETURNS!

Sesame and Lila return home to share the magical apples with all their friends, filling the forest with laughter and joy. The little bunny who was once afraid is now a hero, teaching everyone that bravery is simply trying your best even when you are scared.