In the heart of a magical jungle filled with glowing flowers and giant trees, a tiny green dinosaur named Dino found himself all alone. He wandered through the soft grass, his big eyes searching for a friendly face among the fluttering butterflies.

As the sun began to set, Dino felt very small and scared. He curled up under a large, velvet leaf, wishing for a warm hug and someone to keep him safe from the mysterious shadows of the deep woods.

Suddenly, the bushes rustled and a magnificent lion named Sinbad stepped into the clearing. Sinbad had a thick golden mane and a very kind face, and he looked down at the shivering little dinosaur with gentle, protective eyes.

Instead of a scary roar, , Sinbad let a soft, comforting purr and nudged Dino with his warm nose.

Dino realized that this big lion wasn't dangerous; he was gentle giant who wanted to be his friend.

Panel 1: The Surprise

Panel 2: New Friends

Sinbad knelt down so Dino could climb onto his sturdy, golden back. Together, they traveled through the jungle, passing sparkling waterfalls and colorful birds, heading toward a place where Dino would finally be safe.

They reached a beautiful sun-drenched field where Sinbad's lion family lived. At first, the other lions were surprised to see a little green dinosaur, but Sinbad stood tall and showed them that Dino was now one of them.

A kind mama lion stepped forward and gave Dino a welcoming nuzzle, while the little lion cubs tumbled over to say hello. Dino felt a warm glow in his heart as he realized he had found a brand new family.

The days were filled with joy as Dino played tag and pounced in the tall grass with his lion brothers and sisters. Even though he had scales instead of fur, they loved his curious spirit and his happy, wagging tail.

Under the orange glow of the evening sky, Sinbad taught Dino how to be brave and strong. Dino practiced his very best roar, and even though it sounded more like a tiny squeak, Sinbad let out a proud cheer for his little dinosaur son.
