

Snow White and Rose Red

Mu Ryan

Once upon a time, there lived two sweet sisters named Snow White and Rose Red. They lived with their mother in a cozy cottage by the woods, always helping with chores and playing happily together.

One cold winter evening, there was a knock at the door. A big, shaggy bear stood shivering outside! The sisters, without hesitation, invited him in to warm himself by the fire.

The bear stayed with them all winter, and Snow White and Rose Red would play games with him and tell him stories. They grew to love the gentle bear very much.

When spring arrived, the bear announced that he had to leave. He explained that he needed to protect his treasure from an evil dwarf in the forest.

The sisters were sad to see him go, but they wished him well. They promised to visit him in the forest someday.

One day, while walking in the woods, they heard a cry for help. They found a dwarf whose beard was stuck in a tree root!

Snow White and Rose Red tried to help him, but the dwarf grumbled and complained. Finally, they managed to free his beard, but he didn't even thank them.

Later, they found the same dwarf again, this time his sack of jewels was stuck in a stream. Again, he complained as they helped him get it out.

Suddenly, the bear appeared and roared at the dwarf! The dwarf screamed and tried to run away, but the bear quickly defeated him.

The bear then transformed into a handsome prince! He explained that the dwarf had enchanted him. Snow White and Rose Red, with their kindness, had helped break the spell. The prince and the sisters lived happily ever after.
