

The Great Collision

Creator

AZURE

In a vast, silent world of pure white, a vibrant red line named Ruby rests quietly. She begins to wiggle her tail, feeling a sudden spark of energy coursing through her crimson form.

FATED CONVERGENCE

On the other side of the horizon, a deep blue line named Azure wakes up with a shimmer. He stretches his long, sapphire body, ready to explore the infinite space around him.

THE FIRST ENCOUNTER

Ruby and Azure catch sight of one another across the empty expanse. Their ends curl with curiosity as they recognize a fellow traveler in this minimalist universe.

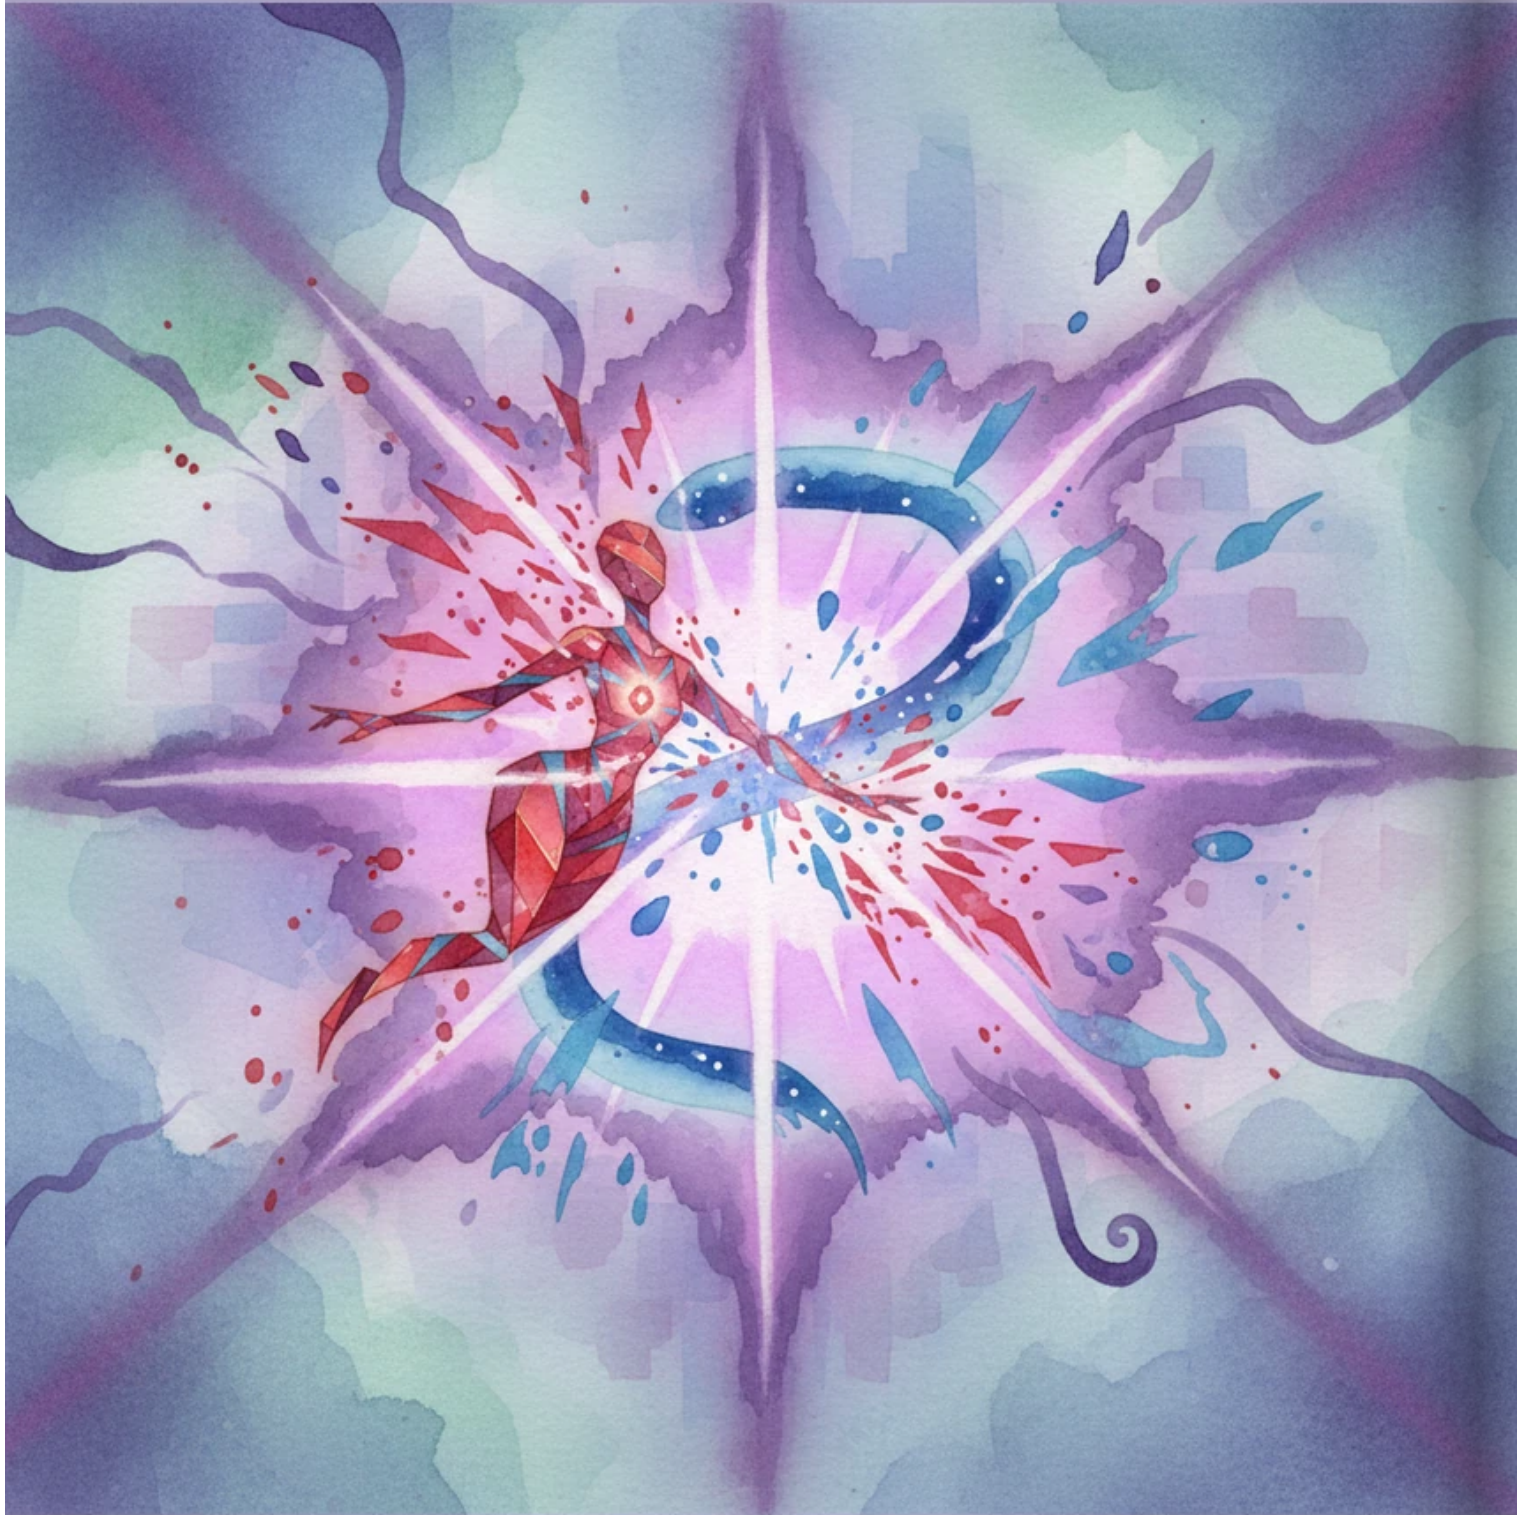

With a sudden burst of excitement, both lines begin to coil like powerful springs. They vibrate against the ground, building up the momentum needed for a magnificent leap.

Simultaneously, they launch themselves high into the air, carving beautiful arches against the white background. Ruby glows like a streak of fire, while Azure follows like a bolt of lightning.

They accelerate toward the center of the sky, their paths perfectly aligned for an encounter. The air around them seems to hum with the anticipation of their meeting.

They hit each other head-on with a spectacular, silent boom. A brilliant flash of purple light erupts at the point of contact where red and blue momentarily fuse.

The force of the impact causes their flexible bodies to ripple and bend like ribbons in the wind. They absorb the energy of the collision, glowing brighter than ever before.

Suddenly, they bounce off each other with incredible velocity, sent spinning in opposite directions. The momentum carries them faster than they have ever traveled.

Ruby and Azure fly off the sides of the screen, leaving behind fading trails of stardust. Though they are gone from sight, the vibrant energy of their meeting lingers in the air.