Estrella's Big Heart

Little Estrella, with a slightly grumpy face, received a tiny, fluffy kitten as a surprise gift. She didn't like cats at all, and the poor kitten looked confused and a bit sad in its new basket.

With a conflicted expression, Estrella carefully placed the small kitten outside on the street. She watched it scamper away, a pang of regret already starting to form in her heart.

Days turned into weeks, and Estrella saw her former kitten happily playing with a kind new owner in the park. A wave of sadness washed over her as she realized how much she missed the little cat and regretted her decision.

Estrella bravely approached the new owner, asking if she could have her kitten back. The kind person gently explained that the cat was now part of their family, leaving Estrella feeling heartbroken and teary-eyed.

Driven by longing, Estrella decided to sneakily retrieve the cat from its new home. She tiptoed away with the kitty in her arms, a mix of triumph and nervousness on her face.

Back in Estrella's room, the cat sat by the window, looking out with a mournful expression. It ignored the toys Estrella offered, clearly missing its new family and making Estrella's heart ache.

With a heavy sigh and a tear rolling down her cheek, Estrella returned the unhappy cat to its rightful owner. She understood that true love meant letting go, even if it made her sad.

To cheer her up, Estrella's mom surprised her with an adorable, tiny puppy with floppy ears. Estrella gasped with delight, instantly falling in love with her new furry friend, whom she named Coffe.

Coffe grew into an enormous, playful dog, barely fitting into their cozy apartment. He would comically bump into furniture, making Estrella and her mom laugh as they tried to navigate around him.

Finally, Estrella, Coffe, and her mom moved into a wonderful new apartment with a massive, vibrant green backyard. Coffe and Estrella joyfully chased butterflies and played fetch under the sunny sky, living happily ever after.
