Mu Ryan

Lumi looked up at the sky. A rainbow stretched across, but it was very, very faint. Its beautiful colors had almost disappeared. Lumi felt a little sad for the quiet rainbow.

"Oh dear!" Lumi thought. "A rainbow needs all its bright colors!" She decided right then that she would help. Lumi took a deep breath and started her big adventure.

First, Lumi found a bright red poppy swaying gently in a field. "Hello, Red!" she whispered, carefully picking one petal. She put the tiny red petal into her little basket.

Next, she spotted a juicy orange growing on a low branch. It looked so round and happy! Lumi carefully plucked the orange, feeling its smooth skin. She placed it next to the red petal.

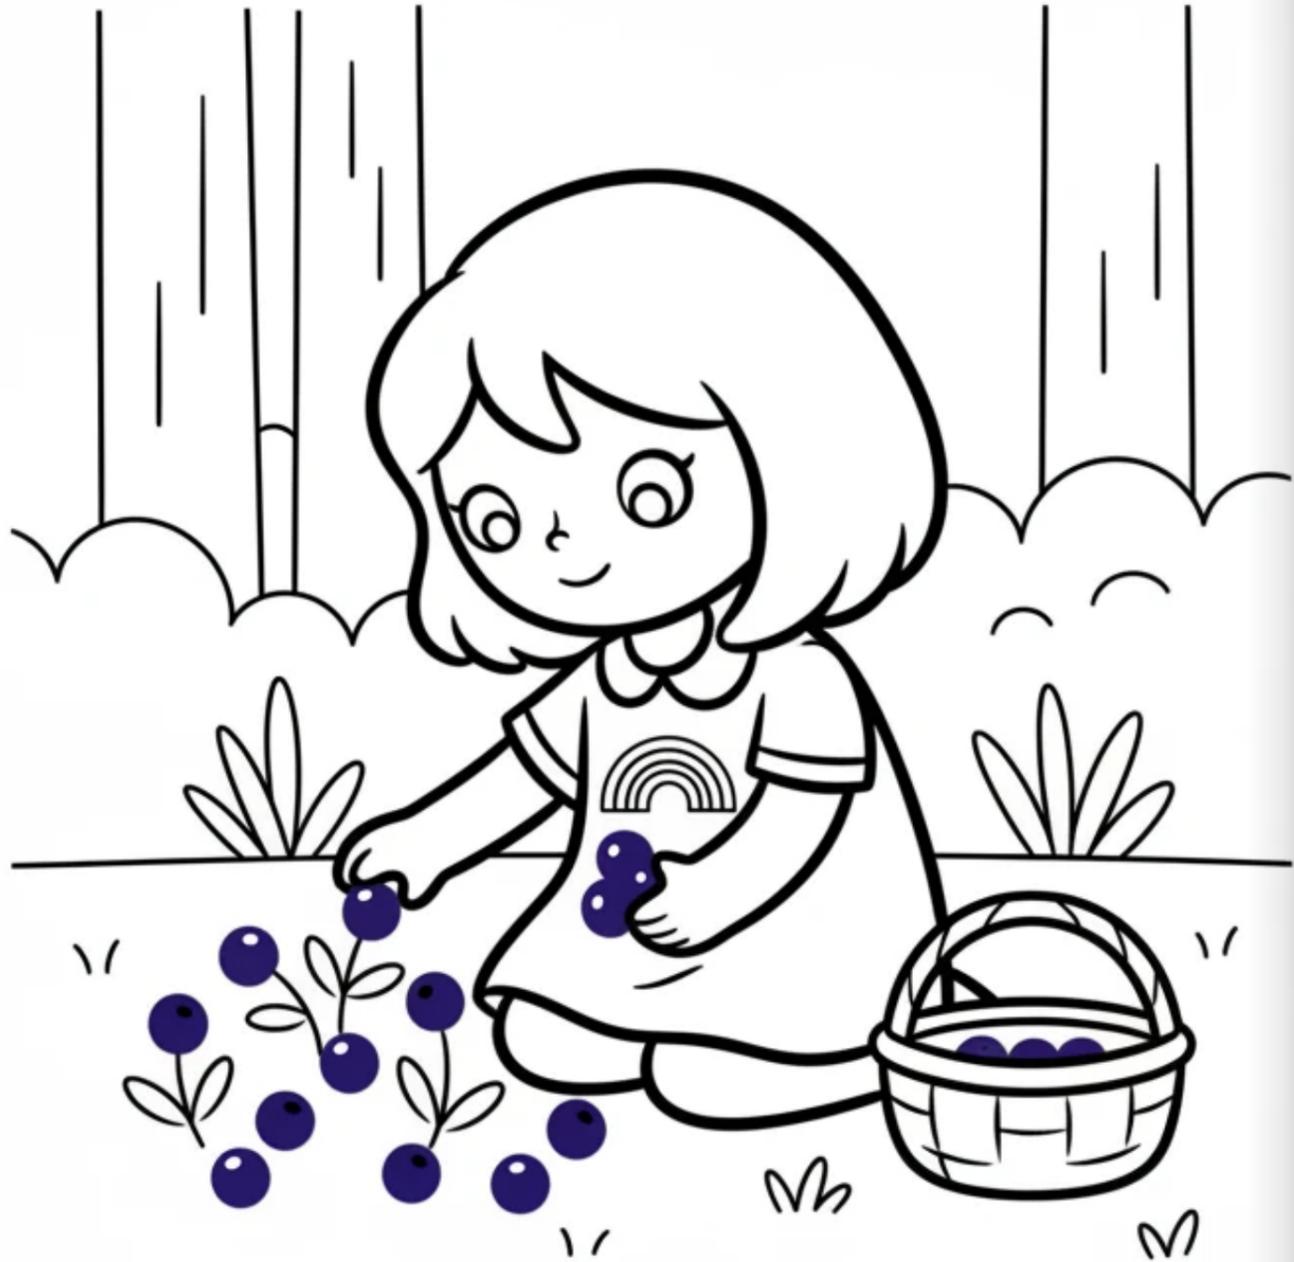

Higher up, the sun peeked through the clouds, sending down a bright yellow beam. Lumi giggled as she caught a piece of its warmth. She carefully folded the sunny yellow light into her basket.

Soon, Lumi walked past a bush with wide, green leaves. They smelled so fresh and lively! She gently took one perfect green leaf and tucked it safely away.

A tiny blue feather drifted down from the sky. It belonged to a happy bluebird that flew overhead. Lumi carefully picked up the soft feather, adding it to her collection.

Deeper in the woods, Lumi discovered a cluster of tiny, dark indigo berries. They looked almost purple, but deeper! She carefully gathered a few into her basket.

Finally, a beautiful purple butterfly fluttered by. It landed on Lumi's outstretched hand for just a moment. Lumi felt its gentle magic and smiled.

Lumi raced back to where the faded rainbow waited. She opened her basket and gently tossed all the collected colors into the sky. Whoosh! The rainbow glowed, vibrant and brilliant once more, filling the world with joy.
