

Rosie and Finn's Forest Adventure

Liza Yeap

Rosie the Rabbit and Finn the Fox sit together under a big, ancient oak tree. They are looking out at the beautiful green forest, ready for their first adventure together.

Rosie hops through the tall, soft grass with her twitchy nose leading the way. She finds a shiny blue stone hidden near a bush and stops to admire its sparkle.

Finn the Fox pops his head out from behind a thick tree trunk. He wags his bushy tail and asks Rosie if he can help her find more forest treasures.

The two new friends decide to search for the prettiest flowers in the woods. Rosie leads the way while Finn follows closely, sniffing the fresh air.

They come to a small wooden bridge over a splashing blue stream. Finn carefully helps Rosie hop across so she doesn't get her paws wet.

In a hidden sunny clearing, they find a patch of bright yellow buttercups. The sun feels warm on their fur as they stop to enjoy the sweet scent of nature.

Suddenly, a few raindrops begin to fall from the sky. Rosie and Finn find a giant green leaf to use as an umbrella, staying dry and cozy together.

A colorful rainbow appears over the treetops as the rain stops. The two friends jump for joy, happy to see such a beautiful sight in their forest home.

As the golden sun begins to set, Rosie and Finn walk back through the quiet trees. They are tired from their long day but feel very happy inside.

They learn that even though they are different, a rabbit and a fox can be the best of friends. Kindness and friendship make every adventure much more fun.
