

Oliver's Cozy Kingdom

Kashvi Manish

The living room is bathed in the golden glow of the setting sun. Little Oliver sits on the soft carpet, holding his favorite teddy bear. The day is ending, and it is almost time for sleep.

Oliver gathers all the big fluffy pillows from the sofa. He arranges them in a circle on the floor. Together with his teddy bear, they build a grand and cozy bedtime castle.

Using a blanket draped over two chairs, Oliver creates a secret tower. It is his very own royal throne room. He puts on a paper crown decorated with shiny silver stars.

Oliver's friendly cat, Whiskers, softly purrs and curls up at the castle gate. Whiskers is the brave knight guarding the entrance. Oliver smiles and gently strokes the soft fur.

The sky outside turns a deep, beautiful shade of indigo. The first tiny stars begin to twinkle in the evening air. Oliver looks out the window and waves goodnight to the day.

Inside his cozy castle, Oliver whispers a bedtime story to his teddy bear. His voice is quiet and very soft. The teddy bear listens with glass eyes, ready for sweet dreams.

Soft shadows dance gently across the living room walls. A warm nightlight glows in the corner, painting the room in pastel colors. Everything is quiet and still.

Oliver yawns a big, sleepy yawn and stretches his arms high. He takes off his shiny paper crown and sets it gently beside him. The little king is ready to rest.

Oliver curls up inside his blanket tower with his teddy bear close by. His eyelids feel heavy like velvet. He takes a long, slow, deep breath in and out.

The little kingdom rests peacefully in the quiet night. Oliver is fast asleep, dreaming of starry skies and gentle breezes. Sleep well, little king, until the morning light.
