

Princess Pip's Big Adventure

Jamie Krause

Princess Pip stands at the big golden gates of her castle. She wears her favorite pink crown and looks out at the bright green world. Today is the day for a grand adventure.

Pip walks into the tall grass where the flowers tickle her knees. Suddenly, a very large shadow stretches across the ground. Something big and soft is waiting nearby.

A giant, fluffy black cat with big yellow eyes steps out from behind a tree. He lets out a gentle purr that sounds like a happy motor. Pip smiles and reaches out to touch his soft fur.

The big cat, named Midnight, kneels down so Pip can climb onto his back. His fur is as soft as a cloud and very warm. Together, they start their journey through the kingdom.

They walk through a magical forest where the flowers are taller than Pip. Midnight sniffs a bright red blossom while Pip laughs at the buzzing bees. Everything is colorful and exciting.

They reach a sparkling blue river that dances over smooth stones. Pip watches the silver fish jump high into the air. Midnight dips a big paw into the cool water.

To cross the water, Midnight walks carefully across a big, mossy log. Pip holds on tight to his silky fur and feels very brave. They make it safely to the other side.

They climb to the top of a soft, grassy hill to look at the view. Pip can see the whole kingdom, from the tiny houses to the tall mountains. The wind blows gently through her hair.

The sky turns a beautiful shade of orange and purple as the sun goes down. Pip feels a little bit sleepy after her long day of exploring. Midnight lets out a big, wide yawn.

Midnight carries Pip back to the castle just as the stars begin to twinkle. He curls up beside her bed, keeping her warm and safe. It was the best adventure ever.
