

Pippa's Big Backward Splash!

Natalie Simpson

The sun shone brightly on the bustling pool, filled with laughter and happy splashes. Little Pippa, with her bright red swimming cap, watched other kids from the edge, her eyes sparkling with curiosity.

Her gaze kept drifting to the tall, wobbly diving board, where brave kids performed amazing flips and dives. Pippa felt a tiny flutter of excitement mixed with a little tickle of nerves.

A friendly lifeguard, with a big smile and a whistle, gave Pippa a cheerful nod, as if to say, 'You can do it!' Taking a deep breath, Pippa decided it was time for her own big adventure.

She walked towards the bright blue ladder, her heart doing a happy little drumbeat. Each step up was a mini-climb to courage, bringing her closer to the sky and the sparkling water below.

Pippa stood at the very edge of the diving board, feeling the bouncy spring beneath her feet. She looked down at the shimmering blue water, where her reflection wiggled back up at her, looking a little nervous but also very determined.

Suddenly, a playful idea popped into her head: a backward jump! She giggled, imagining the giant splash she would make. Turning around carefully, Pippa wiggled her toes, ready to launch.

With a joyful whoop and a mighty push, Pippa leaped off the board! Her arms and legs flew through the air like a happy starfish, defying gravity for a magical moment.

SPLASH! A magnificent, rainbow-colored explosion of water erupted as Pippa plunged into the cool, refreshing pool. It was the biggest, most wonderful splash she had ever made!

Pippa popped out of the water, beaming from ear to ear, water droplets glistening around her like tiny diamonds. She felt like a superhero, strong and incredibly proud of herself.

From the poolside, her friends and family cheered loudly, giving her big thumbs-up and happy claps. Pippa waved back, already dreaming of her next brave adventure and the fun that awaited.
