Amina's Beautiful Flower: A Story of Sabr.
This is a story about a kind girl and her garden.
It teaches us how to be patient and trust in Allah.

Amina is a kind little girl who loves her garden. She enjoys watching the birds and the bright sun. Today she finds a small, brown seed.

Amina digs a small hole and places the seed inside. She covers it gently and gives it some water. She says a sweet dua, asking Allah to help it grow.

Amina waits for one day, then two days, and three days. She looks at the pot every single morning. But the soil is still quiet and brown.

Amina feels a little bit sad and confused. She asks her mother why the flower is not growing yet. She wonders if the seed is sleeping too long.

Her mother gives her a big, warm hug. She explains that they must have Sabr, which means patience. Allah will make it grow when the time is right.

Amina smiles and decides to be very patient. She keeps watering the pot and taking care of it every day. She says Alhamdulillah for the sun and the rain.

One morning, Amina sees something very tiny and green. A little sprout is peeking out from the dark soil! Amina is so happy and thankful.

The tiny sprout grows into a beautiful, bright flower. It is the prettiest flower in the whole garden. Amina's heart is full of joy and light.

The moral of the story is that Sabr means waiting with a happy heart. Allah loves those who are patient. Always remember to say Alhamdulillah for everything.
