Mu Ryan

Pip was a brand-new crayon, white and bright. He sat in a big box with all his colorful friends. Pip felt a little plain, wondering what it was like to make a mark in the world. Suddenly, a vibrant red crayon rolled over with a friendly grin. "Hello, Pip! My name is Ruby," she chirped. "Are you ready to discover the magic of colors?" (Image: Pip (white crayon) facing a slightly larger, simple red crayon (Ruby). Both have simple smiles. Ruby is leaning slightly towards Pip.)

Ruby explained, "I am the color of juicy apples and speedy fire trucks!" She drew a simple, bold red line, then a circle. Pip watched, fascinated, as Ruby showed him the joy of red. Next, a sunny yellow crayon bounced over. "Hi there, I'm Sunny!" she beamed. "Everything bright and cheerful is my specialty." Pip felt a warm glow just looking at her. (Image: Pip and Ruby now looking at a cheerful yellow crayon (Sunny) with a big, simple smile, arms outstretched in a welcoming gesture.)

Sunny showed Pip how she could make the sun shine and lemons taste zesty. She drew a big, happy sun and a simple lemon outline. "Yellow brings so much light!" she exclaimed. (Image: Sunny (yellow crayon) drawing a simple sun with rays and a lemon outline. Pip and Ruby are watching.)

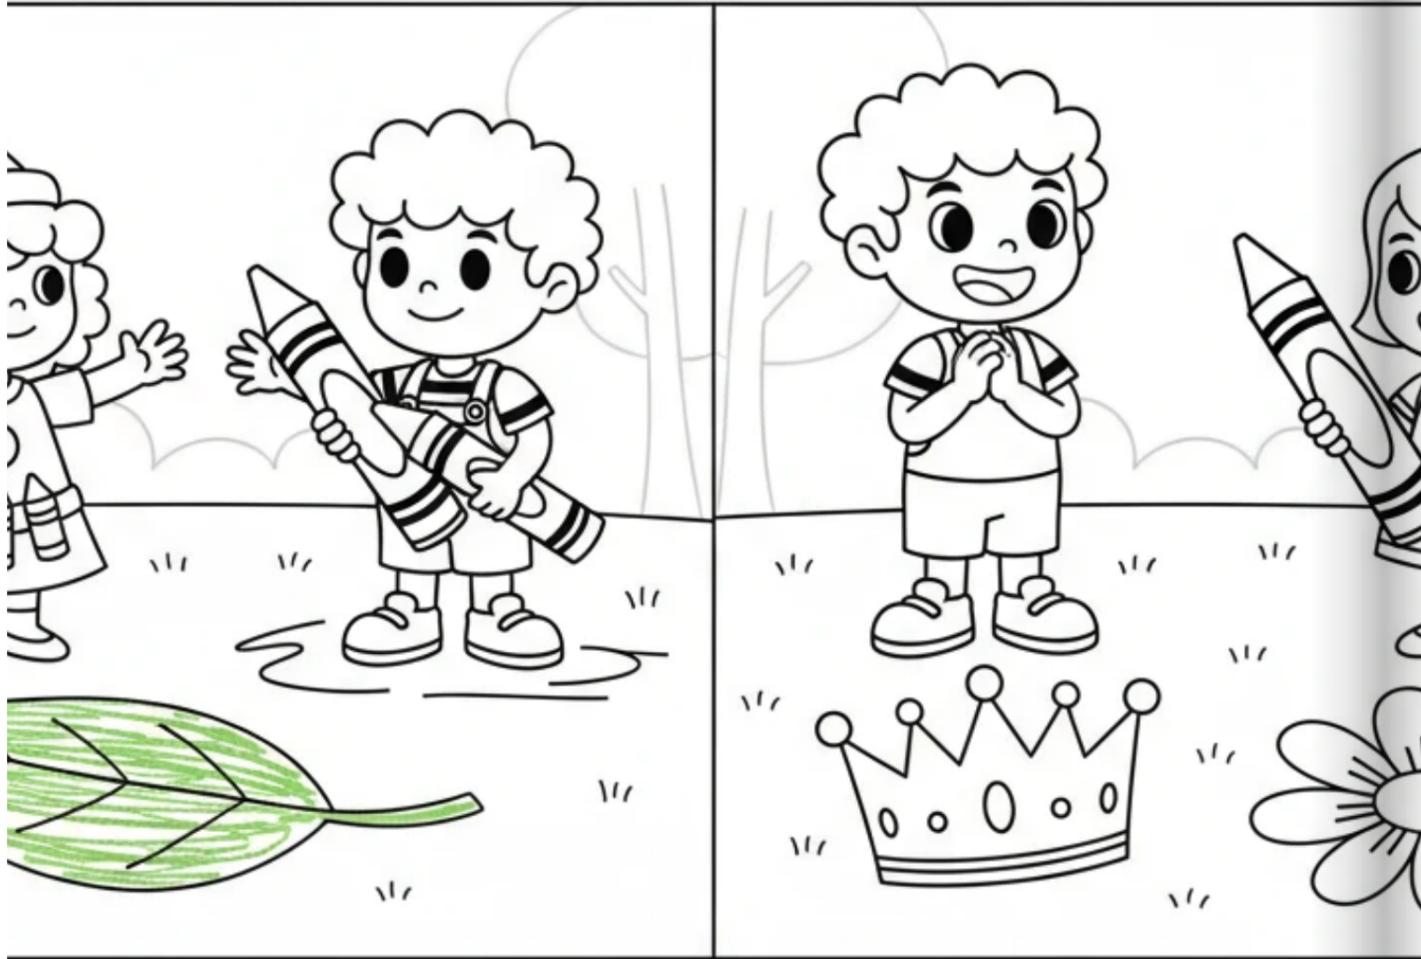

Then, a calm blue crayon floated gently by. "Greetings, I'm Skye," she introduced herself softly. "I'm the color of the vast sky and the deep, peaceful ocean." (Image: Pip, Ruby, and Sunny looking at a serene blue crayon (Skye) with gentle, calm eyes and a small smile.)

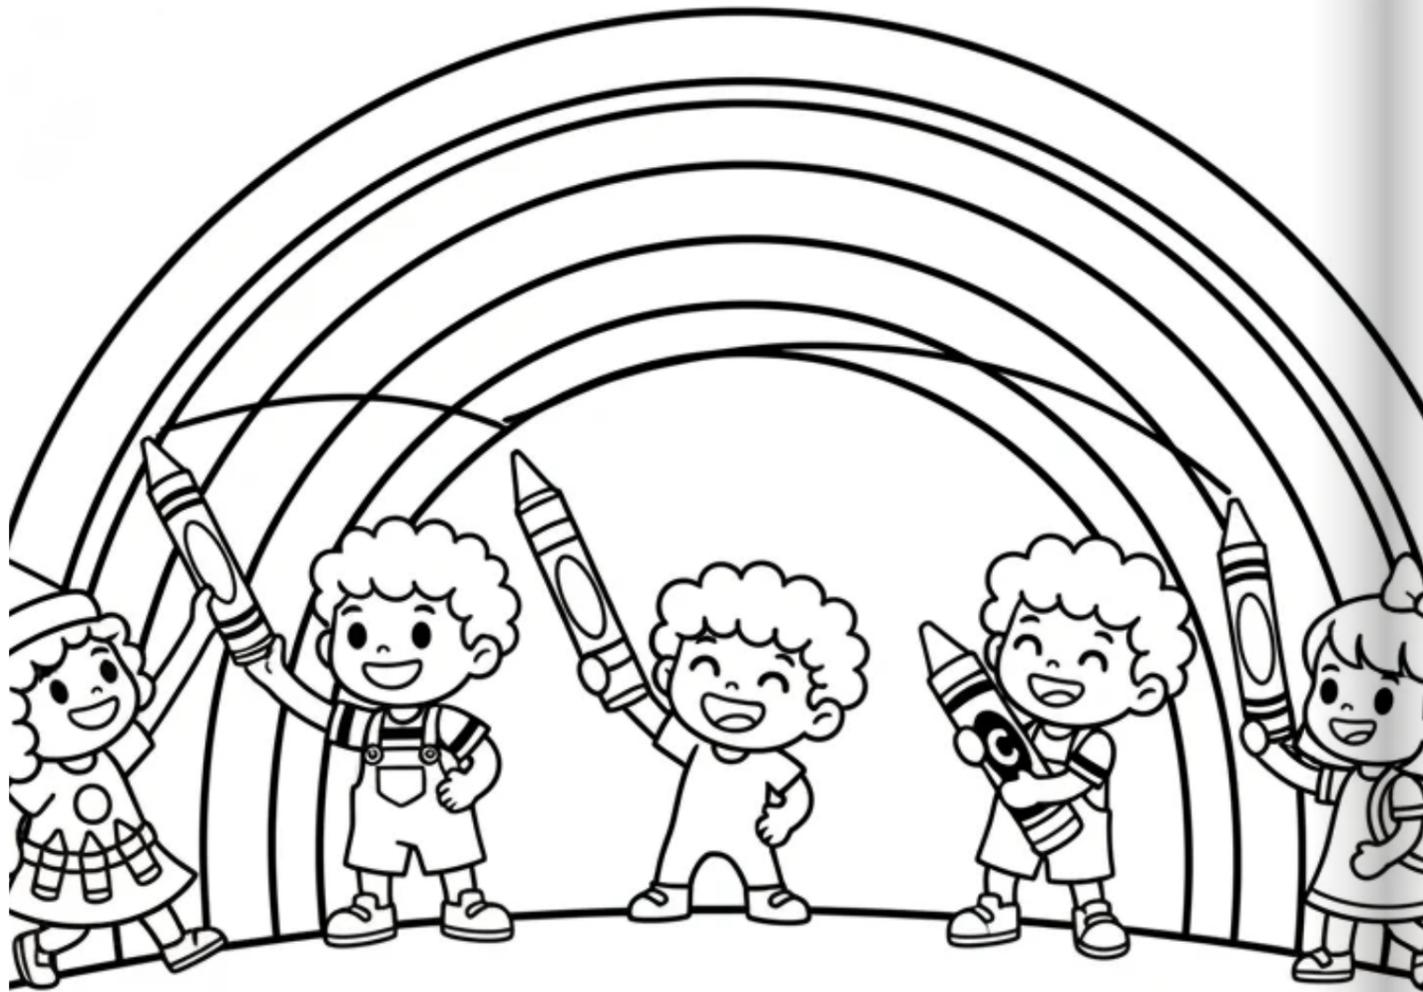

Skye drew a serene blue wave and a wide, open sky. "Blue can be calm like a quiet pond or exciting like a stormy sea," she explained. Pip was amazed by all the different feelings colors could hold. (Image: Skye (blue crayon) drawing a simple wave pattern and a curved line representing the horizon of the sky. The other crayons are observing.)

"Now for a secret!" whispered Ruby. "When I mix with Sunny, we make a brand new color!" Ruby and Sunny drew lines together, and a beautiful orange appeared. "It's orange!" they cheered. (Image: Ruby (red crayon) and Sunny (yellow crayon) drawing intertwining lines that merge into a simple orange blob or line. Pip is wide-eyed.)

Sunny then danced with Skye, creating a lovely green for grass and leaves. Skye and Ruby made a regal purple, perfect for flowers and crowns. Pip watched, eager to try. (Image: Sunny (yellow) and Skye (blue) drawing a simple green leaf shape. Then Skye (blue) and Ruby (red) drawing a simple purple flower outline. Pip is smiling excitedly.)

Pip now understood the magic. He joined his friends, and together they drew a magnificent, vibrant rainbow, full of all the colors they had created. Pip felt so proud, knowing he was part of something wonderful.
