

The Leader's Special Offer

Raza Khan

Shehbaz walks through a vibrant, sun-drenched marketplace filled with colorful stalls and the hum of happy shoppers. He wears a sharp suit and a warm, approachable smile, waving to the local vendors as he explores the busy streets.

SHEHBAZ SHARIF

He pauses at a modern tech booth where a young girl is excitedly testing a new tablet. A bright neon sign above the counter reads a special message about a mega sale and discounts for students.

Watching the girl's face light up with joy, Shehbaz realizes how much a small gesture can mean to the community. He nods approvingly at the shopkeeper, who is busy helping a line of eager customers with a big grin.

A few steps away, the delicious aroma of fresh spices leads him to a bustling food stall. A large, hand-painted banner proudly displays a community feast discount meant for families and friends to share.

He watches a large family sharing a mountain of fragrant rice and colorful vegetables, their laughter echoing through the square. The sense of togetherness in the air is palpable and heartwarming to witness.

The shopkeeper notices Shehbaz standing there and greets him with a respectful bow and a twinkle in his eye. A small crowd gathers around, curious to see if the busy leader will stop to enjoy the local festivities.

Shehbaz looks at the happy family and then back at the special offer sign with a playful expression. He leans toward the shopkeeper and says with a friendly laugh, "Mere liye bhi same offer laga do!"

BAZAR-E PAKISTAN

The marketplace bursts into cheerful applause and lighthearted laughter at his witty and relatable remark. The shopkeeper quickly begins preparing a generous serving, delighted by the leader's down-to-earth nature.

Shehbaz takes a seat at a humble wooden table among the townspeople, enjoying the meal and listening to their stories. The barriers between leader and citizen vanish in the warm glow of the evening sun.

As twilight falls and the market lights begin to twinkle, Shehbaz continues his journey with a full heart. He has shown that true leadership is about sharing the same joys and simple offers as the people he serves.
