AN ACADEMY OF SHADOWS AND SECRETS

High amidst the misty mountain peaks stood Ravenscrest Academy, a gothic fortress where power dictated every step and society was strictly divided into Alphas, Betas, and Omegas. At the very top of this hierarchy walked Kael Raven, a pure-blood Alpha whose presence commanded immediate silence. As his sleek black car arrived at the giant iron gates, surrounding students stepped back in quiet awe, knowing better than to cross his path.

Stepping off an old bus with a worn suitcase and her admission papers, seventeen-year-old Aira Khan stared up at the palace-like gates with a mix of wonder and skepticism. A friendly student named Noah paused to welcome her, offering one crucial piece of advice: never provoke an Alpha, because some of them truly bite. Unbothered by the warning, Aira adjusted her dark uniform and stepped into her strange new world.

Inside the grand academy hall, a sudden hush fell over the crowd as Kael entered, flanked by his elite circle of Alpha peers. Ignored by none, Kael suddenly paused as his gaze inexplicably swept across the hall and locked onto Aira standing at the far end. For a fleeting second, his eyes shimmered with a faint golden glow, leaving him whispering a single curious question into the quiet room.

During lunch in the bustling cafeteria, the entire room abruptly stood in reverence as Kael walked through the doors, leaving Aira baffled by their dramatic deference. Turning carelessly to find a seat, Aira bumped right into Kael, spilling his drink across his dark uniform. As the room gasped in silent horror, Kael stared down at the fearless new girl, astonished that she had not felt his overpowering presence coming.
