Mu Ryan

Sparkle the unicorn woke up in a soft, quiet world. Everything around her was gentle and white, like a fluffy cloud. She stretched her legs and blinked her big, kind eyes, wondering what the day would bring.

As Sparkle trotted along, a shiny round object caught her eye. It was a bright red apple, hanging invitingly from a leafy branch. 'Red!' she thought, marveling at its cheerful hue.

Further on, Sparkle saw something poking out of the ground. It was a crunchy, vibrant orange carrot, peeking from the green earth. 'Orange!' she whinnied softly, feeling a little hungry.

The morning grew brighter as a big, happy circle appeared in the sky. It was the warm, glowing yellow sun, casting light everywhere. 'Yellow!' Sparkle giggled, feeling its warmth on her horn.

Soon, Sparkle found herself in a wide-open field. Everywhere she looked, soft blades of grass swayed gently. 'Green!' she whispered, delighted by the fresh, lively color beneath her hooves.

A tiny creature fluttered past her nose. It was a beautiful blue butterfly, dancing gracefully on the breeze. 'Blue!' Sparkle watched it fly, its wings a soft sky color.

Near a bubbling stream, Sparkle spotted a cluster of lovely flowers. Their petals were a deep, rich purple, standing tall and proud. 'Purple!' she admired their royal shade.

Suddenly, rain began to fall, but then the sun peeked out! Across the sky stretched a magnificent arch of many hues. 'A rainbow!' Sparkle gasped, seeing red, orange, yellow, green, blue, and purple all together.

Sparkle looked all around her world. It wasn't just white anymore; it was full of wonderful, exciting colors! She felt so happy to have discovered them all, one by one.

With a skip in her step, Sparkle knew her world was much more vibrant and beautiful than she had imagined. She couldn't wait to find even more colors and share their magic with everyone!
