Good morning!

But as the day went on, Pippin felt a tiny bit lonely.
He wished he had someone to share his quiet morning with.

He hopped to the edge of the pond...

... and saw something small.

Pippin decided right then that he he would help it feel better.

With a determined hop, Pippin moved towards the water's edge. He dipped his toe in the cool pond, thinking...

Hmm... how to carry water?

He found a perfectly shaped green leaf, just big enough to hold a single, glistening dewdrop. Very carefully, Pippin balanced the leaf, holding the precious water.

Slowly and steadily, Pippin carried the dewdrop back to the thirsty flower. He
He gently tilted the leaf, letting the tiny drop of water fall onto the flower's dry soil.

Suddenly, the little flower began to perk up!

I FEEL SO HAPPY AND PROUD!

Pippin hopped back to his lilly pad, a big smile on wr face. he face. The little flower, now standing tall, seemed to wave thanks to t him. Pippin knew that even small acts of kindness could bring ou smoch joy.
