

The Clever Circle's Big Adventure

Circolo the little circle rolled slowly along a winding path, feeling very small and alone. The world around him was filled with strange colors, and he realized he didn't know which way was home.

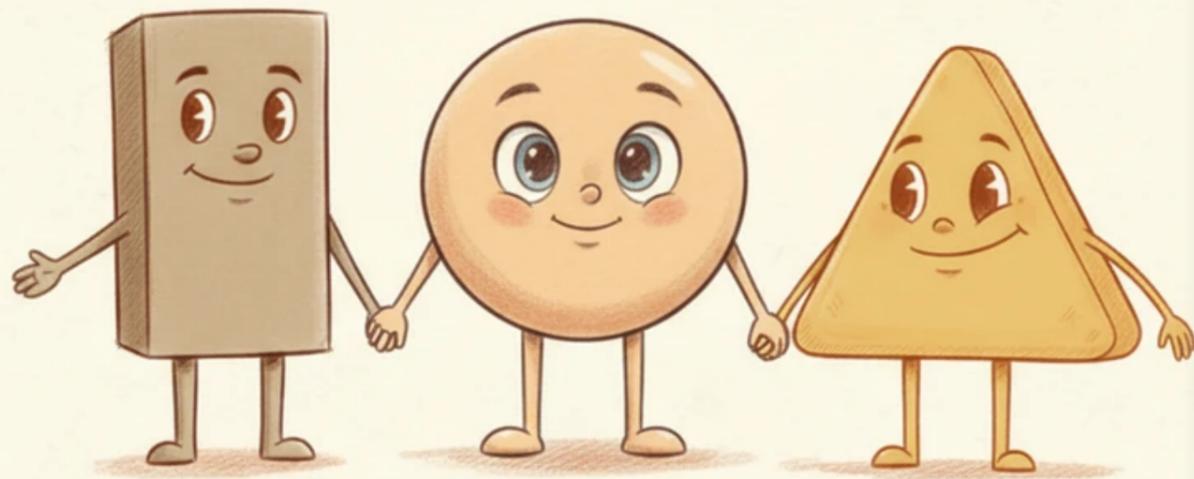

Soon, Circlo came across a bright yellow house shaped exactly like a triangle. A friendly triangle with a big smile stepped out and asked Circlo where he was headed on such a sunny day.

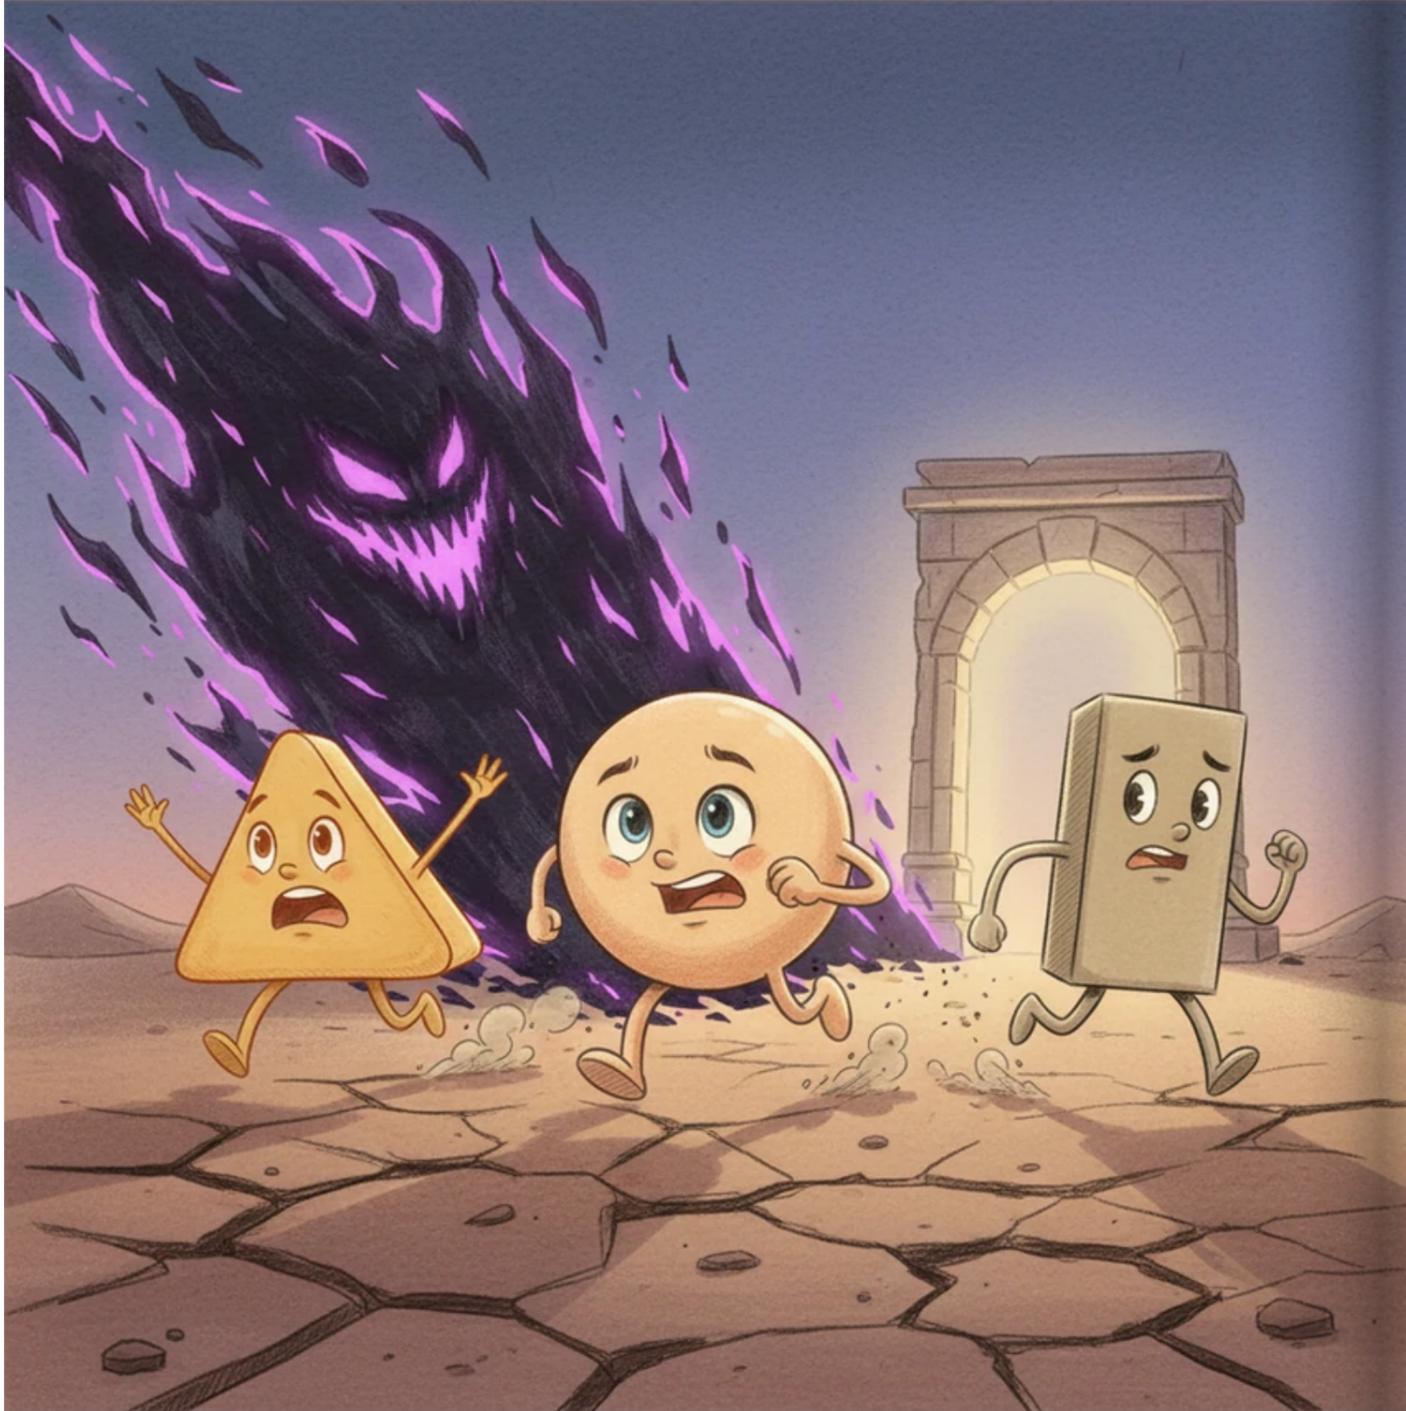

Circlo explained that he was lost and needed help finding his way back. The triangle gave a warm grin and promised to walk with him, making sure Circlo wasn't alone anymore.

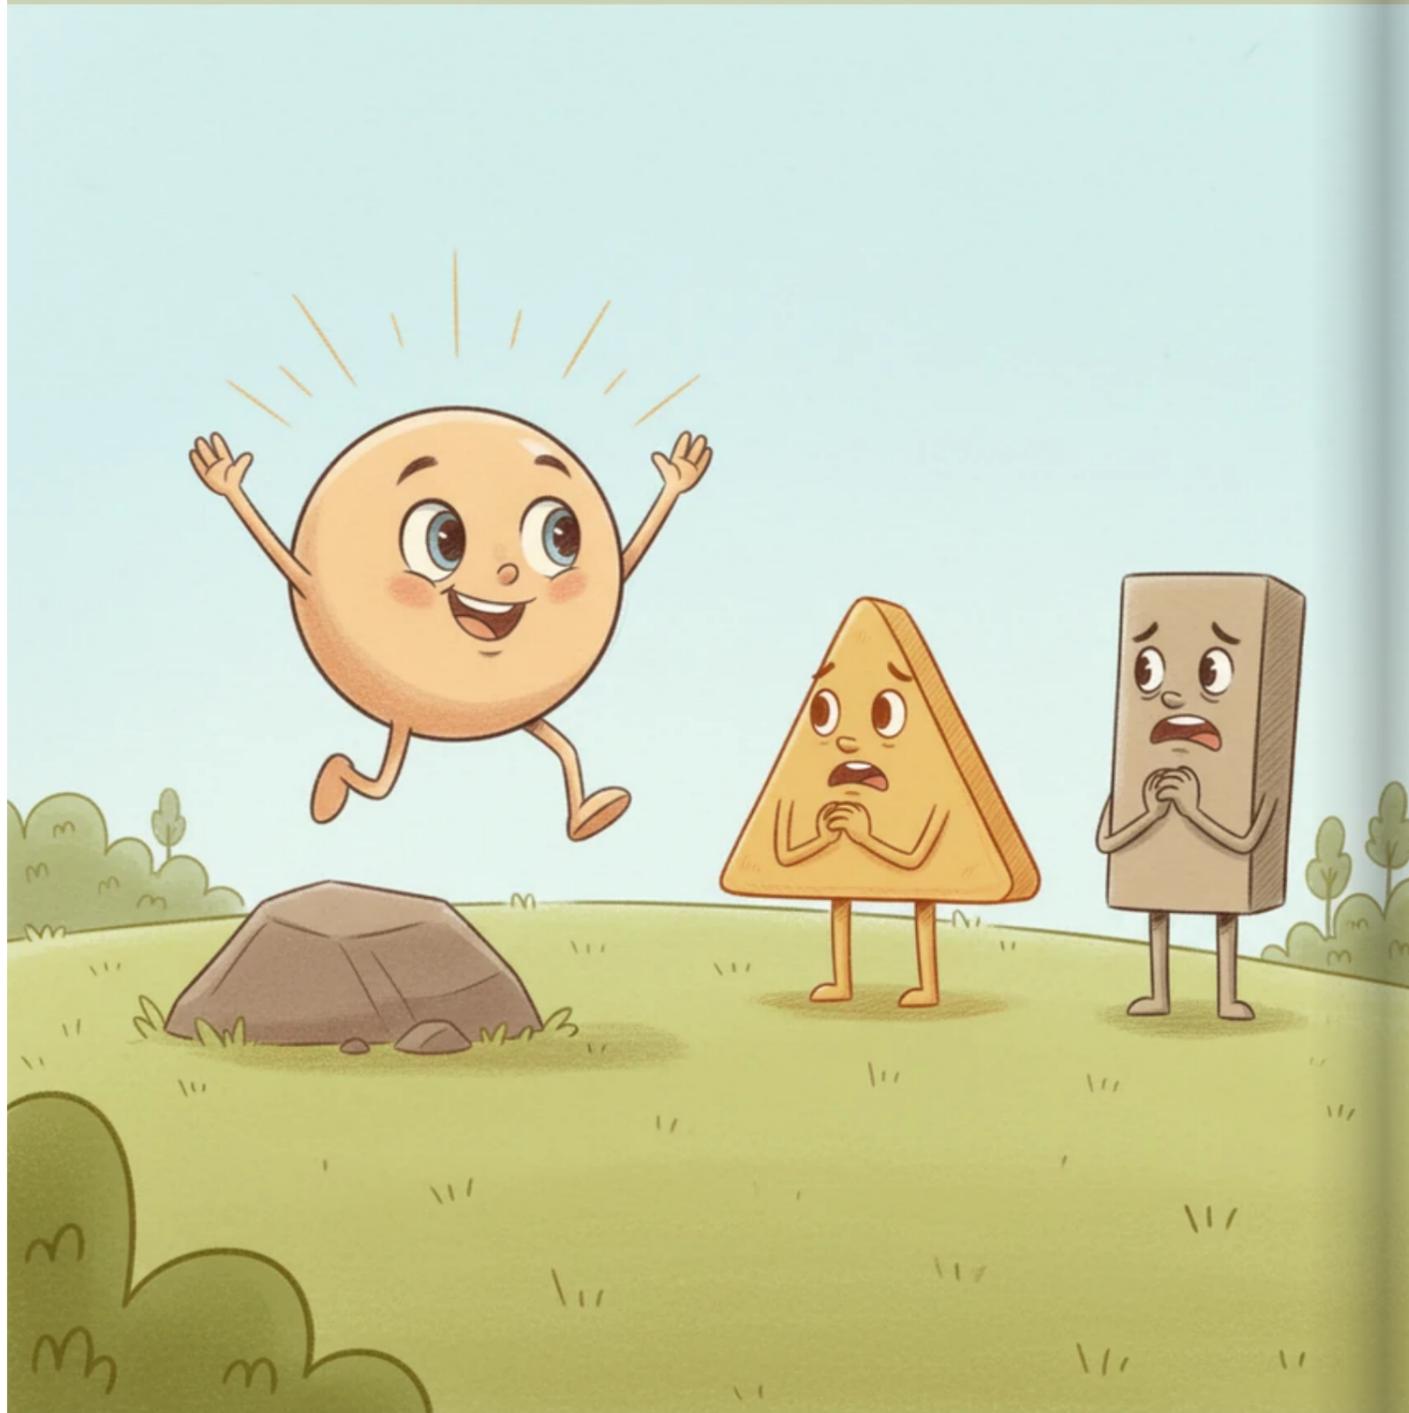

As they traveled through a meadow of geometric flowers, they met a tall, sturdy rectangle. The rectangle looked at the duo and asked with a hopeful voice if he could join their little group.

Circolo and the triangle shouted 'Yes!' together, welcoming their new friend with open arms. Now the three shapes marched forward, feeling stronger and happier as a team of three.

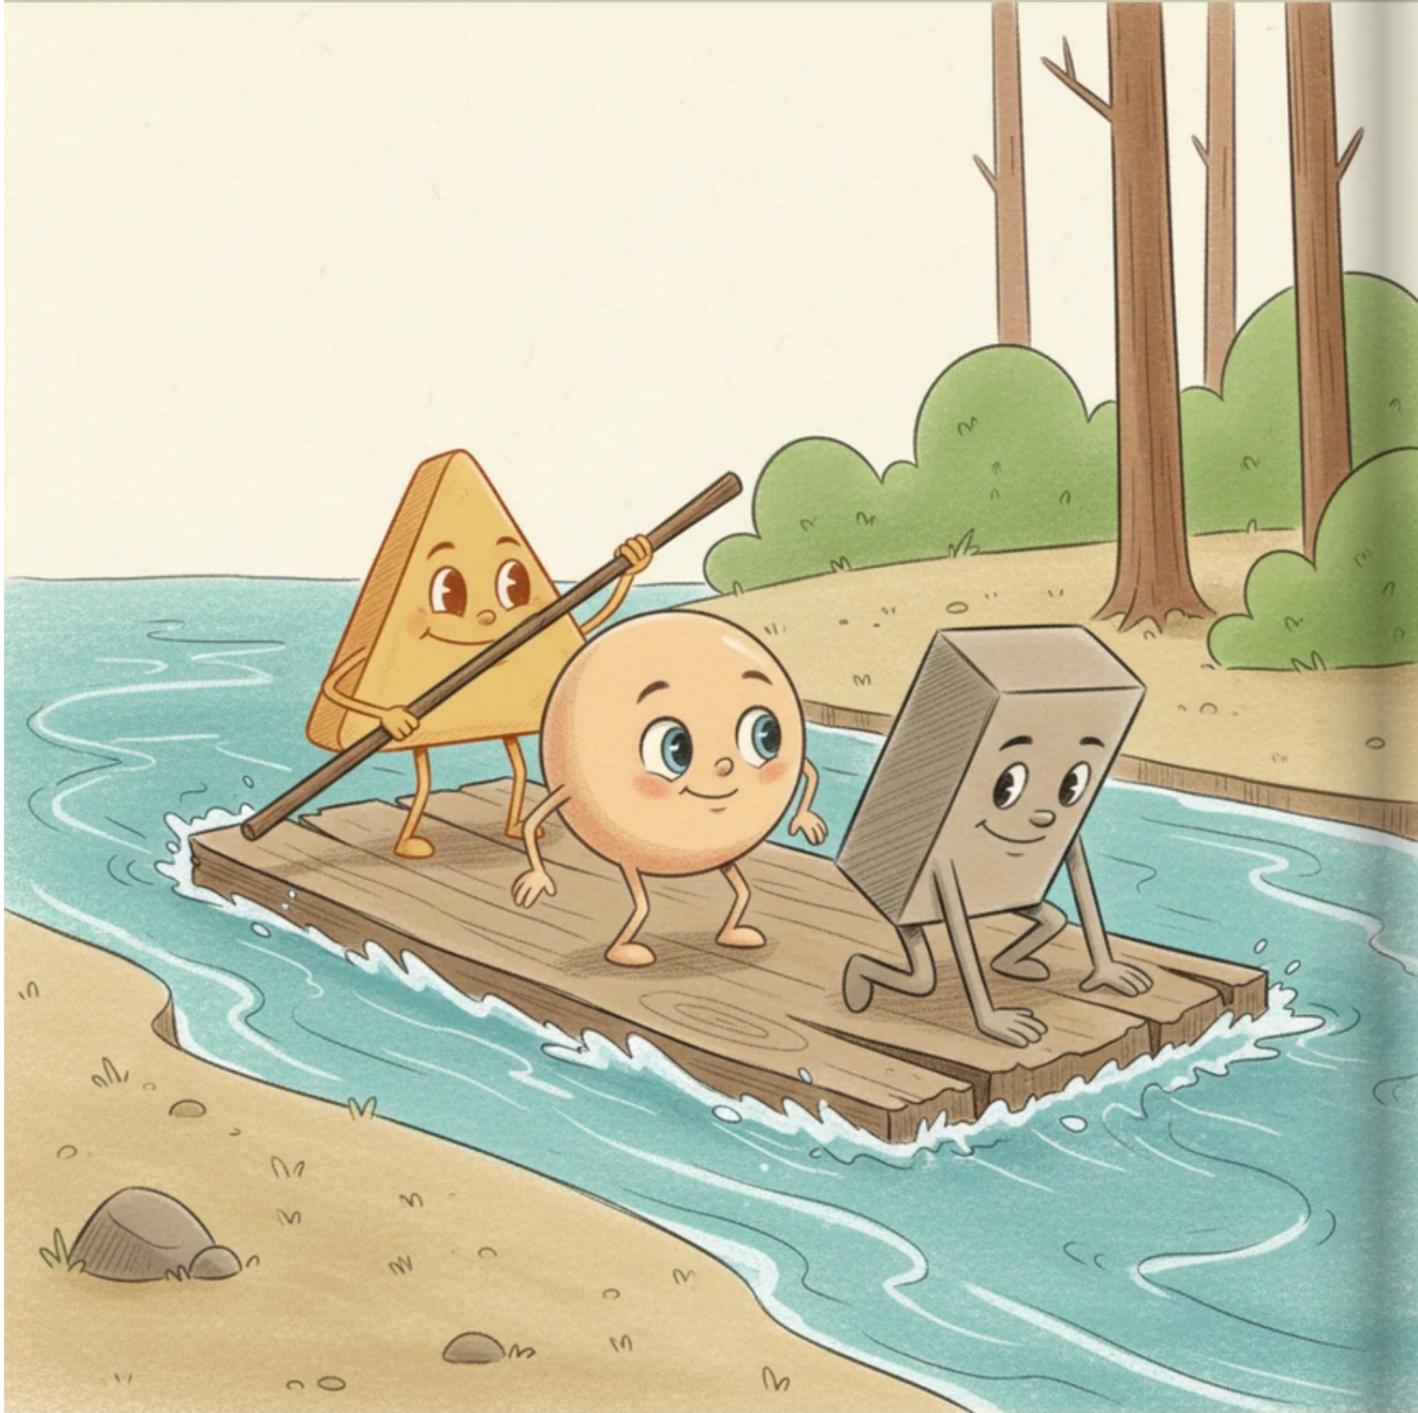

Suddenly, they reached the edge of a wide, rushing blue river that sparkled under the sun. The triangle looked at the deep water and worriedly wondered how they could ever get to the other side.

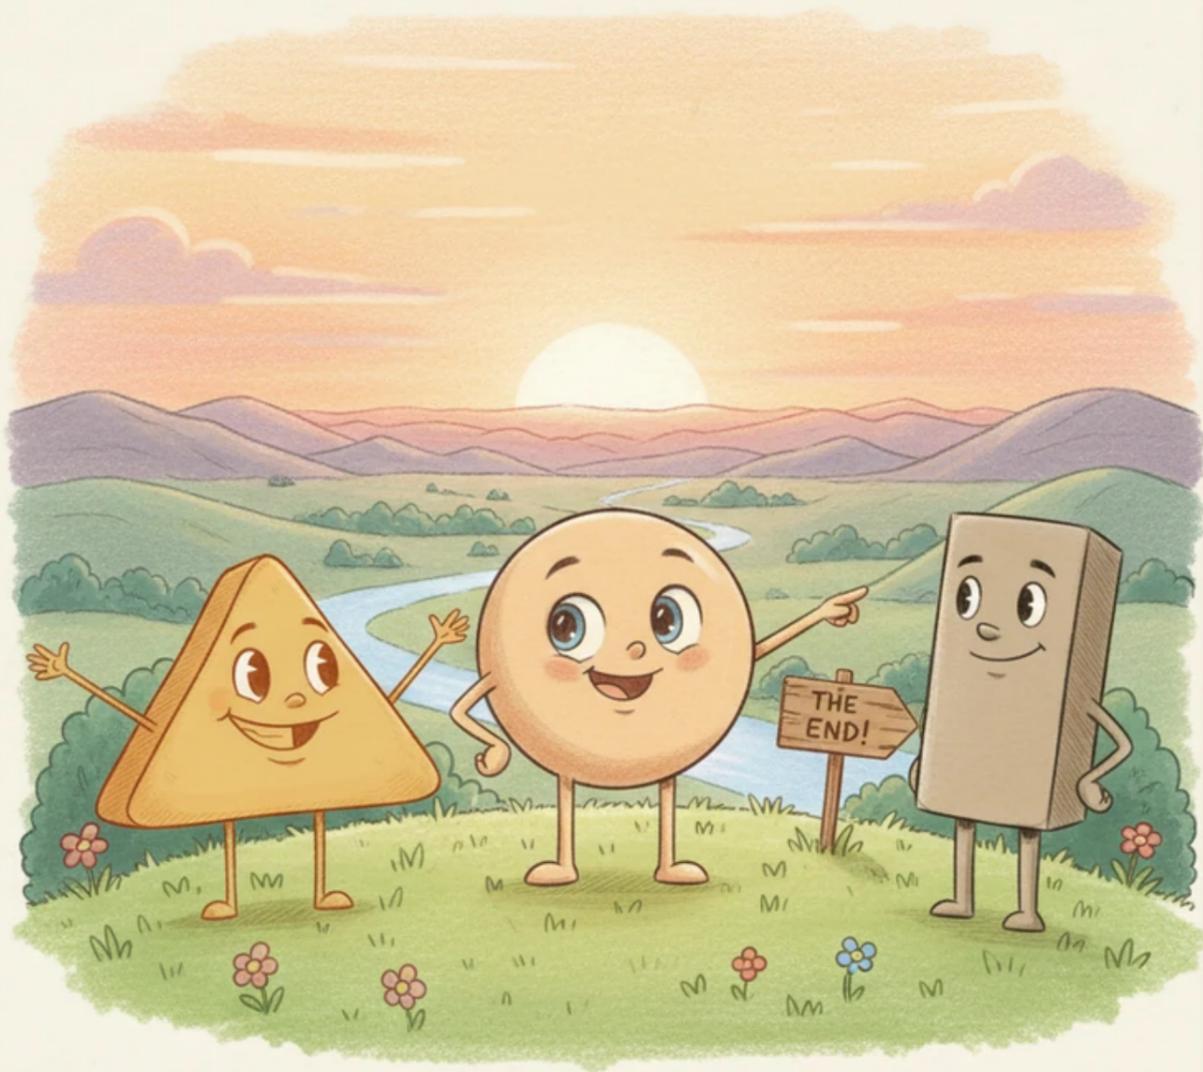

While the others worried, Circlo sat very still and thought as hard as he could. A brilliant idea began to form in his mind, and he jumped up with excitement to tell his friends.

Circlo suggested that if they stuck their bodies together, they could transform into a different shape entirely. He showed them how they could become a fast, swimming fish to cross the water.

The rectangle became the middle, the triangle snapped on as the tail, and Circle took his place at the front. Together, they splashed into the river and swam gracefully through the cool blue waves.

They reached the grassy shore safely and cheered for their clever plan. Circlo realized he wasn't lost at all because he had found the best thing in the world—a group of true friends.
