

coloring pages

Mu Ryan

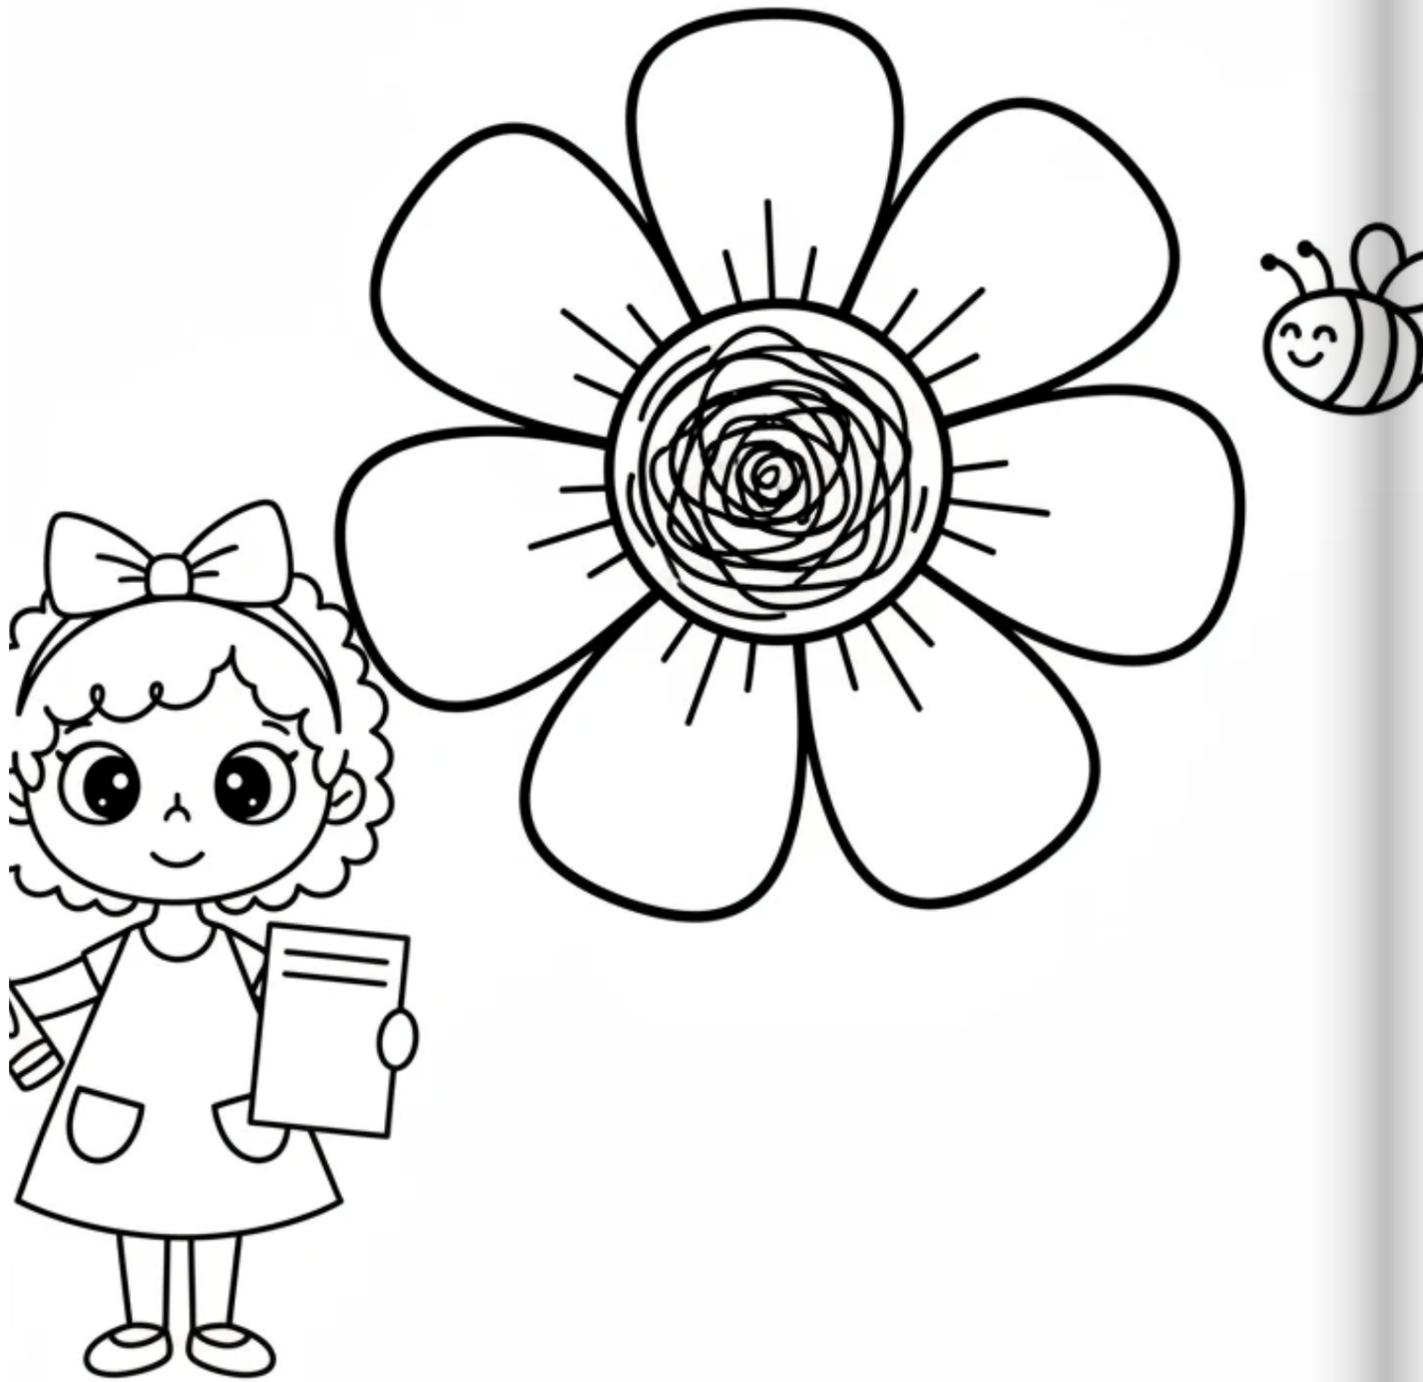

Pip, a small, round-headed child, sits happily on the floor. A simple, open coloring book lies before them, its pages completely blank. A single, bold crayon rests beside the book, waiting to bring color to life.

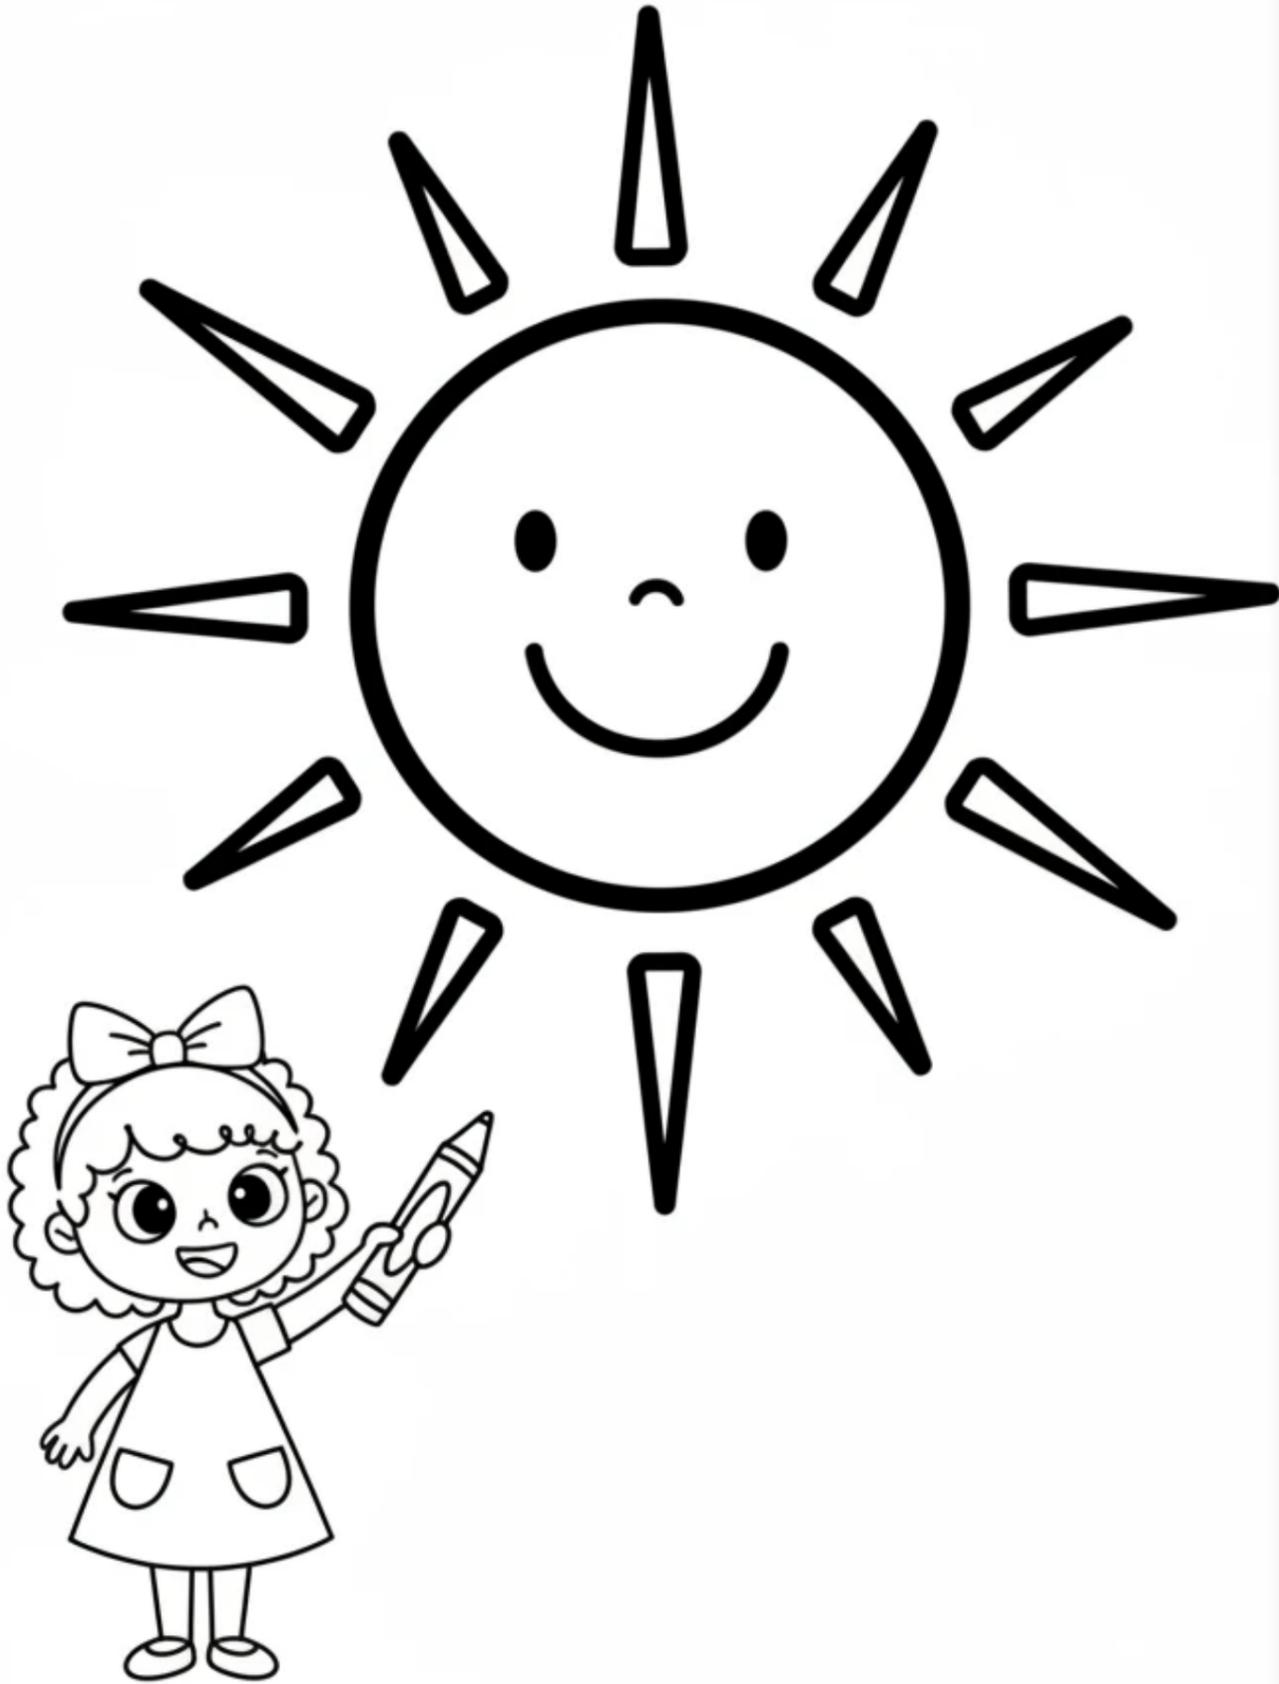

Pip holds the crayon, poised to draw. One blank page shows a simple outline of a big, smiling star. Pip's small hand reaches for the page, ready to begin the magical act of coloring.

The star is now half-colored. Bold, simple lines show Pip's crayon strokes filling in one point of the star. Pip's face shows concentration and a hint of a smile, enjoying the process.

On another page, a beautiful flower blooms, its petals outlined simply. Pip has colored the center of the flower with bold, swirling lines. A tiny, happy bee hovers nearby, admiring Pip's work.

A big, friendly sun shines brightly on a new page. Pip has filled its round face with simple, cheerful lines, and its rays extend outward like bold strokes. The sun looks warm and inviting, full of Pip's creative energy.

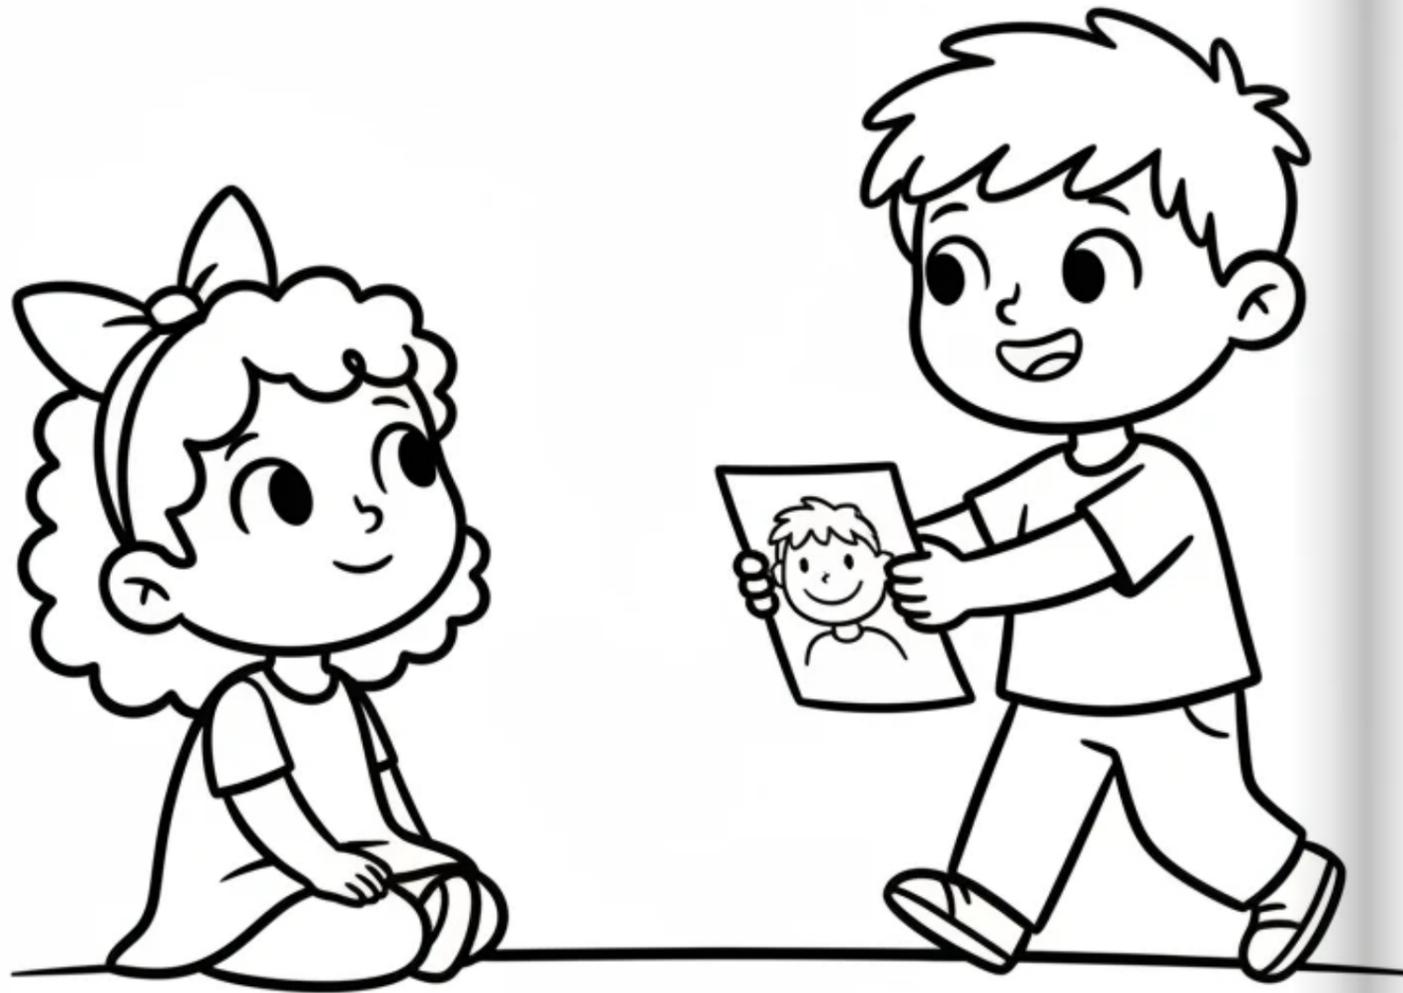

Pip colors a fluffy bunny. The bunny has a round head, two long ears, and a tiny, happy smile. Pip carefully adds simple lines to make its fur look soft and cuddly, bringing the animal to life.

Pip sits surrounded by several finished coloring pages, spread out on the floor. The star, the flower, the sun, and the bunny all look vibrant in their implied colors. Pip claps small hands together, full of pride and joy.

Pip has an idea! With a fresh blank page, Pip draws a very simple outline of another child. This new drawing has a happy smile and outstretched arms, ready for a friend.

Pip walks towards a friend, Lily, who is sitting nearby. Pip holds out the newly drawn picture of the smiling child. Lily, with a similar simple, round shape, looks up with a curious, friendly expression.

Pip and Lily sit side-by-side, sharing a collection of crayons. They are both happily coloring the picture Pip drew. Their simple smiles show the joy of creating and sharing art together.