

Timmy and the Flying Saucer

Stelios Kosmopoulos

Timmy was playing in his backyard, chasing butterflies, when he noticed something strange in the sky. It was a shiny, silver disc hovering silently above the trees.

He stopped, his eyes wide with amazement, and stared at the flying saucer. It slowly descended, casting a large shadow over his yard.

The saucer landed gently in the middle of his lawn, and a ramp extended to the ground. A small, green alien cautiously walked down the ramp.

Timmy, though a little scared, was also very curious. He took a deep breath and bravely approached the alien.

The alien smiled, a friendly gesture, and held out a small, glowing device. Timmy reached out and touched it.

Suddenly, Timmy understood the alien's language! The alien explained that his ship had broken down and he needed help.

Timmy, being a resourceful young boy, ran to his garage and grabbed his toolbox. He returned to the ship, ready to assist.

Together, Timmy and the alien worked on the ship, Timmy handing over tools and the alien explaining what to do. They became fast friends.

Finally, after a few hours, the ship was fixed! The alien thanked Timmy profusely and offered him a ride around the yard.

Timmy strapped himself in, and the flying saucer zoomed around his backyard before blasting off into space, leaving Timmy with an unforgettable memory and a new friend among the stars.
