Flora, a cheerful dinosaur with a big smile, wakes up in a vibrant jungle. Sunlight peeks through the tall leaves, making patterns on her scales. She stretches her long neck, ready for a new day.

Near her cozy spot, Flora notices a tiny, dull stone on the ground. It looks sad and gray. She leans closer, curious about the lonely little rock.

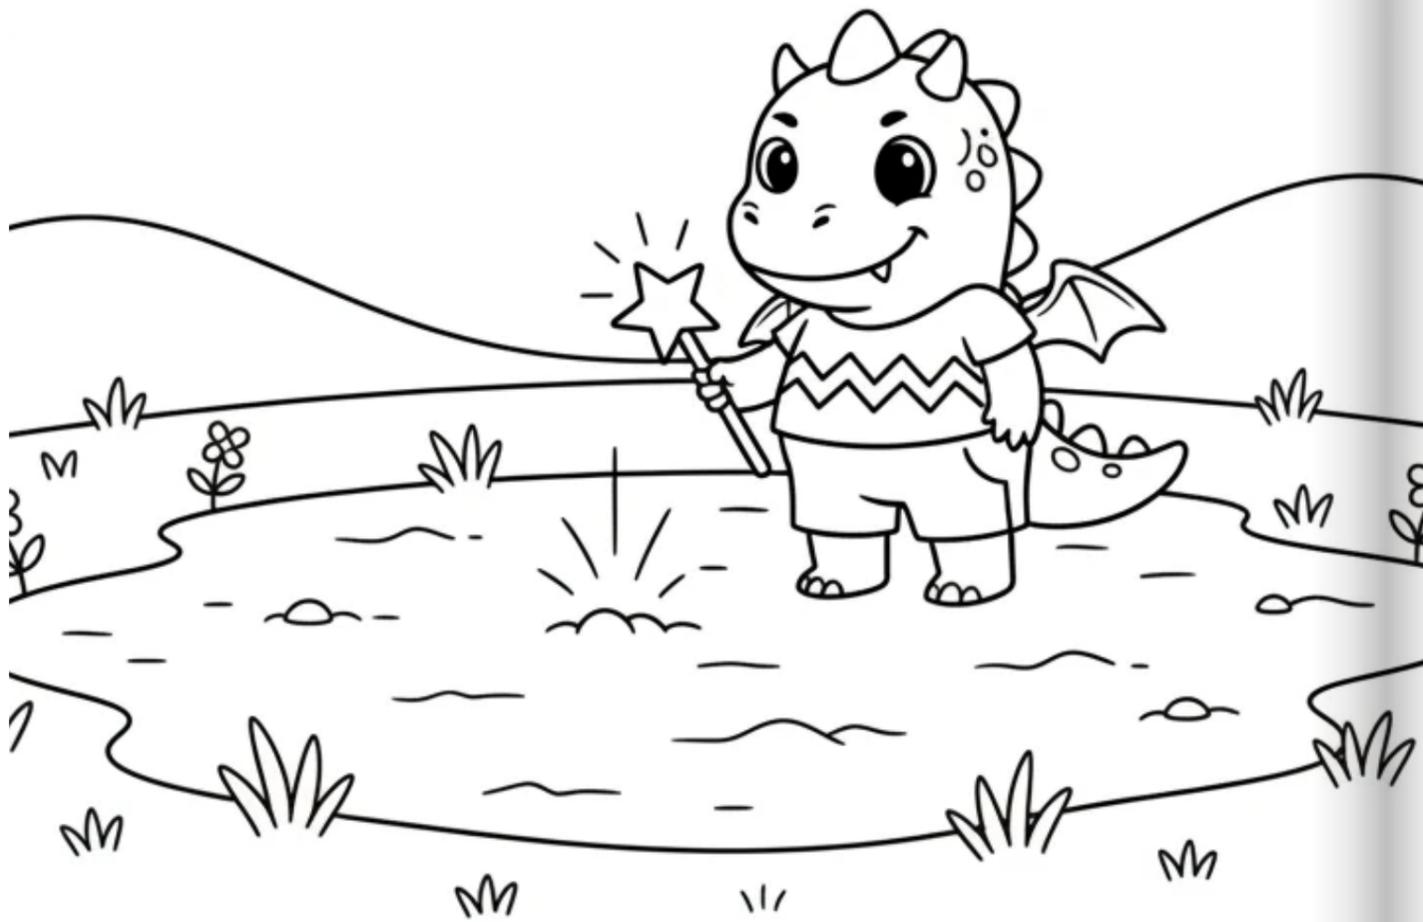

Flora gently touches the stone with her nose, and suddenly, it glows with soft, warm light. The stone transforms into a sparkling, colorful gem, twinkling brightly.

Flora skips through the jungle, excited by her new magic. She spots a little butterfly struggling to fly because one wing is droopy. The butterfly looks very sad.

With a soft breath, Flora blows a tiny puff of sparkling air towards the butterfly. Its wing instantly mends, and the butterfly flutters happily in circles around Flora.

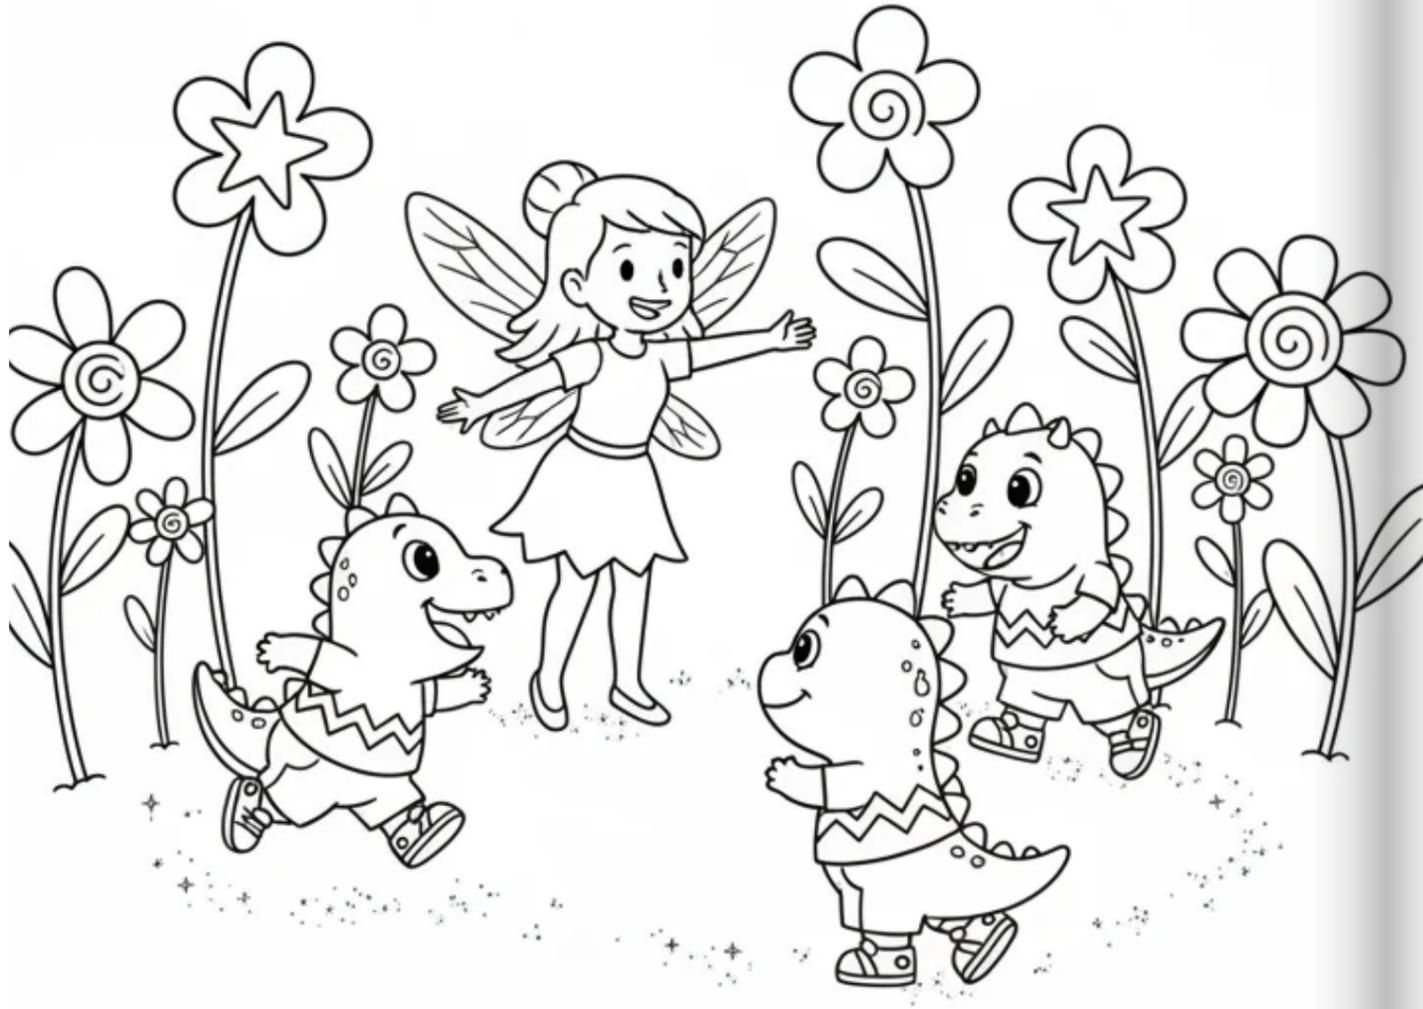

Flora discovers a patch of bare, dry ground. No flowers or grass grow there, making the earth look lonely. She wants to bring beauty to this empty space.

Flora closes her eyes and imagines a garden. When she opens them, the ground is covered in a burst of colorful, swirling flowers. Bees buzz happily around them.

A group of little baby dinosaurs watch Flora with wide, amazed eyes. They have never seen such magic before and are delighted by the vibrant scene.

Flora invites the baby dinosaurs to play among the magical flowers. They giggle and chase each other, their tiny footprints leaving trails of glitter.

As the sun sets, Flora curls up under a giant, glowing mushroom she created. She smiles, knowing her magic brought joy to her friends and the jungle.
