

sprunki coloring pages

Mu Ryan

Meet Pip, a happy little Sprunki! Pip loves to explore and find new things to do. Today, Pip felt like a grand adventure was about to begin.

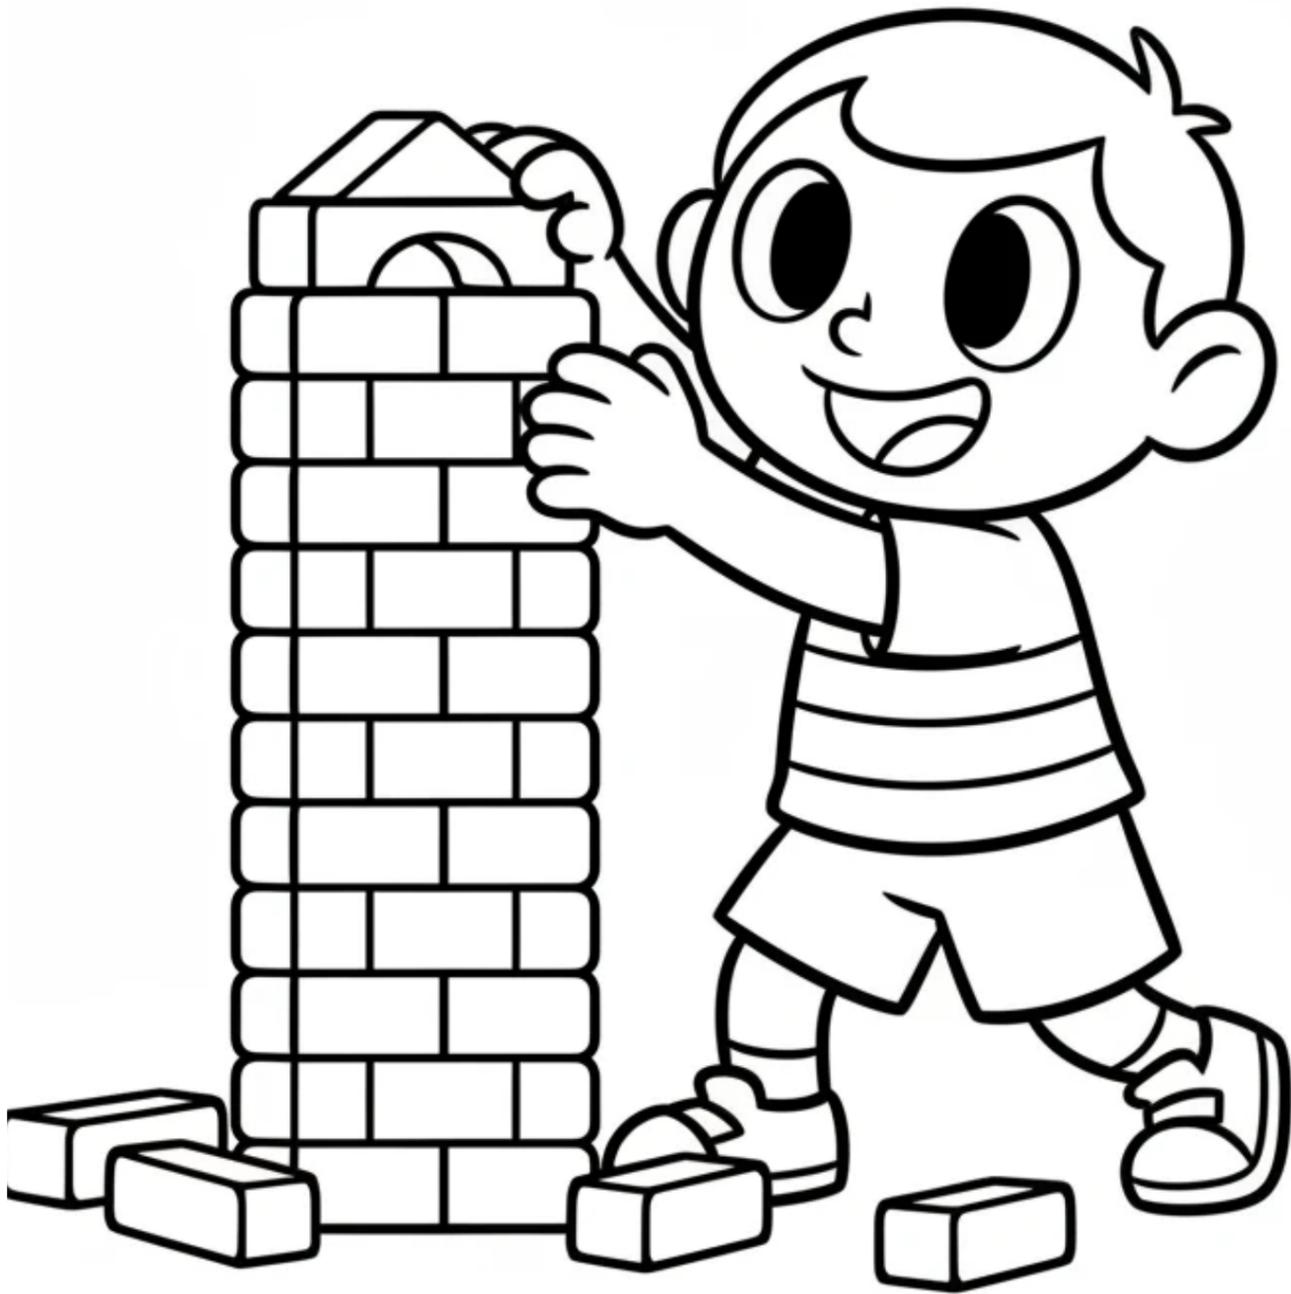

Oh my! What's this big mess? Pip found a giant pile of colorful blocks all mixed up. Red, blue, yellow, round, square, pointy – they were everywhere!

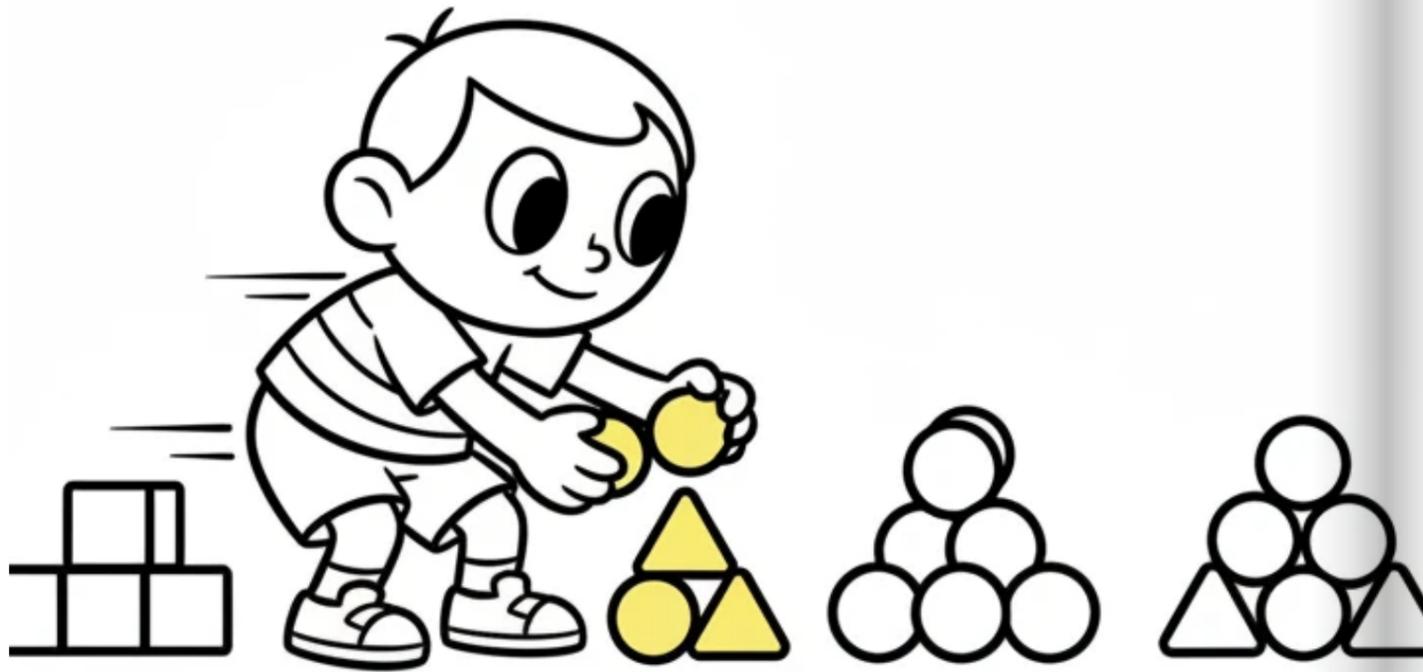

Pip scratched a little head. "This looks like a job for a Sprunki!" Pip decided to make the pile neat and tidy by sorting them first by color.

First, Pip started with all the bright red shapes. One by one, Pip carefully picked them up and placed them in their own special pile. What a lovely red mountain!

Next came the cool blue shapes. Pip hummed a happy tune while gathering every single blue block. Soon, there was a perfect blue tower standing tall.

Finally, it was time for the sunny yellow shapes. Pip worked quickly, making sure no yellow piece was left behind. Three colorful piles now stood side-by-side!

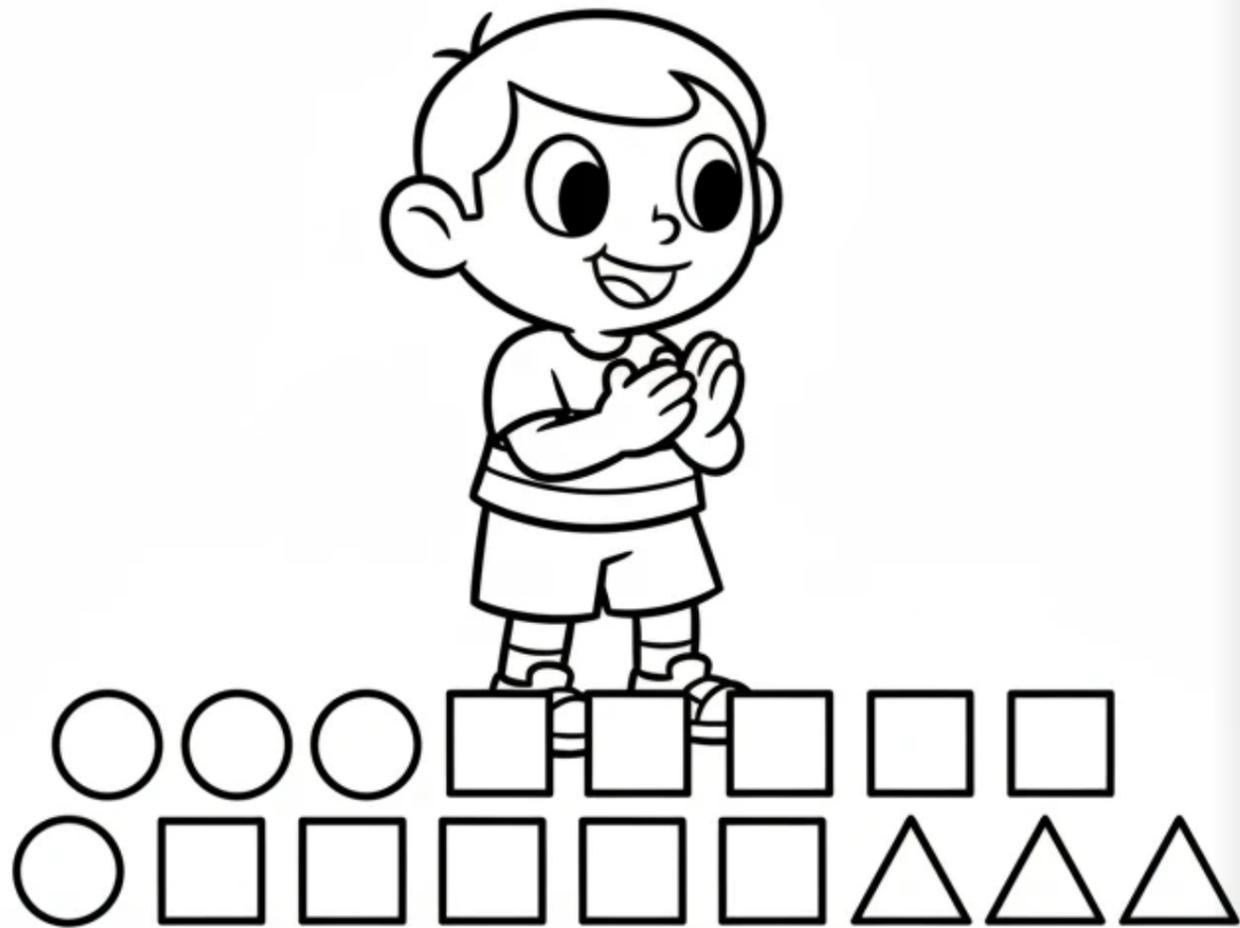

"Hmm," thought Pip, "it looks so much better now!" But then Pip had another brilliant idea. What if they could also be sorted by their shapes?

Pip started with all the round circles. Red circles, blue circles, yellow circles – they all rolled together into one happy, curvy group.

Then came the sturdy squares with their straight lines. Pip carefully stacked them up, making a strong, four-sided tower.

At last, every single block was in its perfect place! Circles here, squares there, and triangles all in a row. Pip clapped little hands, feeling very proud of a job well done!