

Skunky & Momo's Alphabet Adventure - The Lost Alphabet

Petar Kostadinov

Skunky the fluffy skunk and Momo the nimble monkey were playing in the forest when they noticed something strange.

A page from an old book was blank, and they realized all the letters in the woods were beginning to fade.

They found the Wise Old Owl, who explained that when children stop writing stories, letters lose their sparkle.

Skunky and Momo set off on a quest to gather the alphabet and save the power of words.

They climbed high into the trees to catch floating capital letters before they disappeared completely.

The friends helped each other search under mushroom caps for shy lowercase letters that were hiding.

Soon their big basket was almost full of glowing, sparkly letters of all different shapes and colors.

They were just missing a few when they saw something bright and colorful caught in a big spiderweb.

Working together carefully, Skunky held the basket while Momo untangled the very last lost letter.

The letters were all back, glowing brightly on the book pages as the friends wrote down their own big alphabet adventure.
