Leo watched his friends play...

Scene 3: A little sad, Leo wandered off to sit by a grand, bright flower. Its petals were round and soft, and it seemed to just for him. He wished his voice could be as beautiful as the flower.

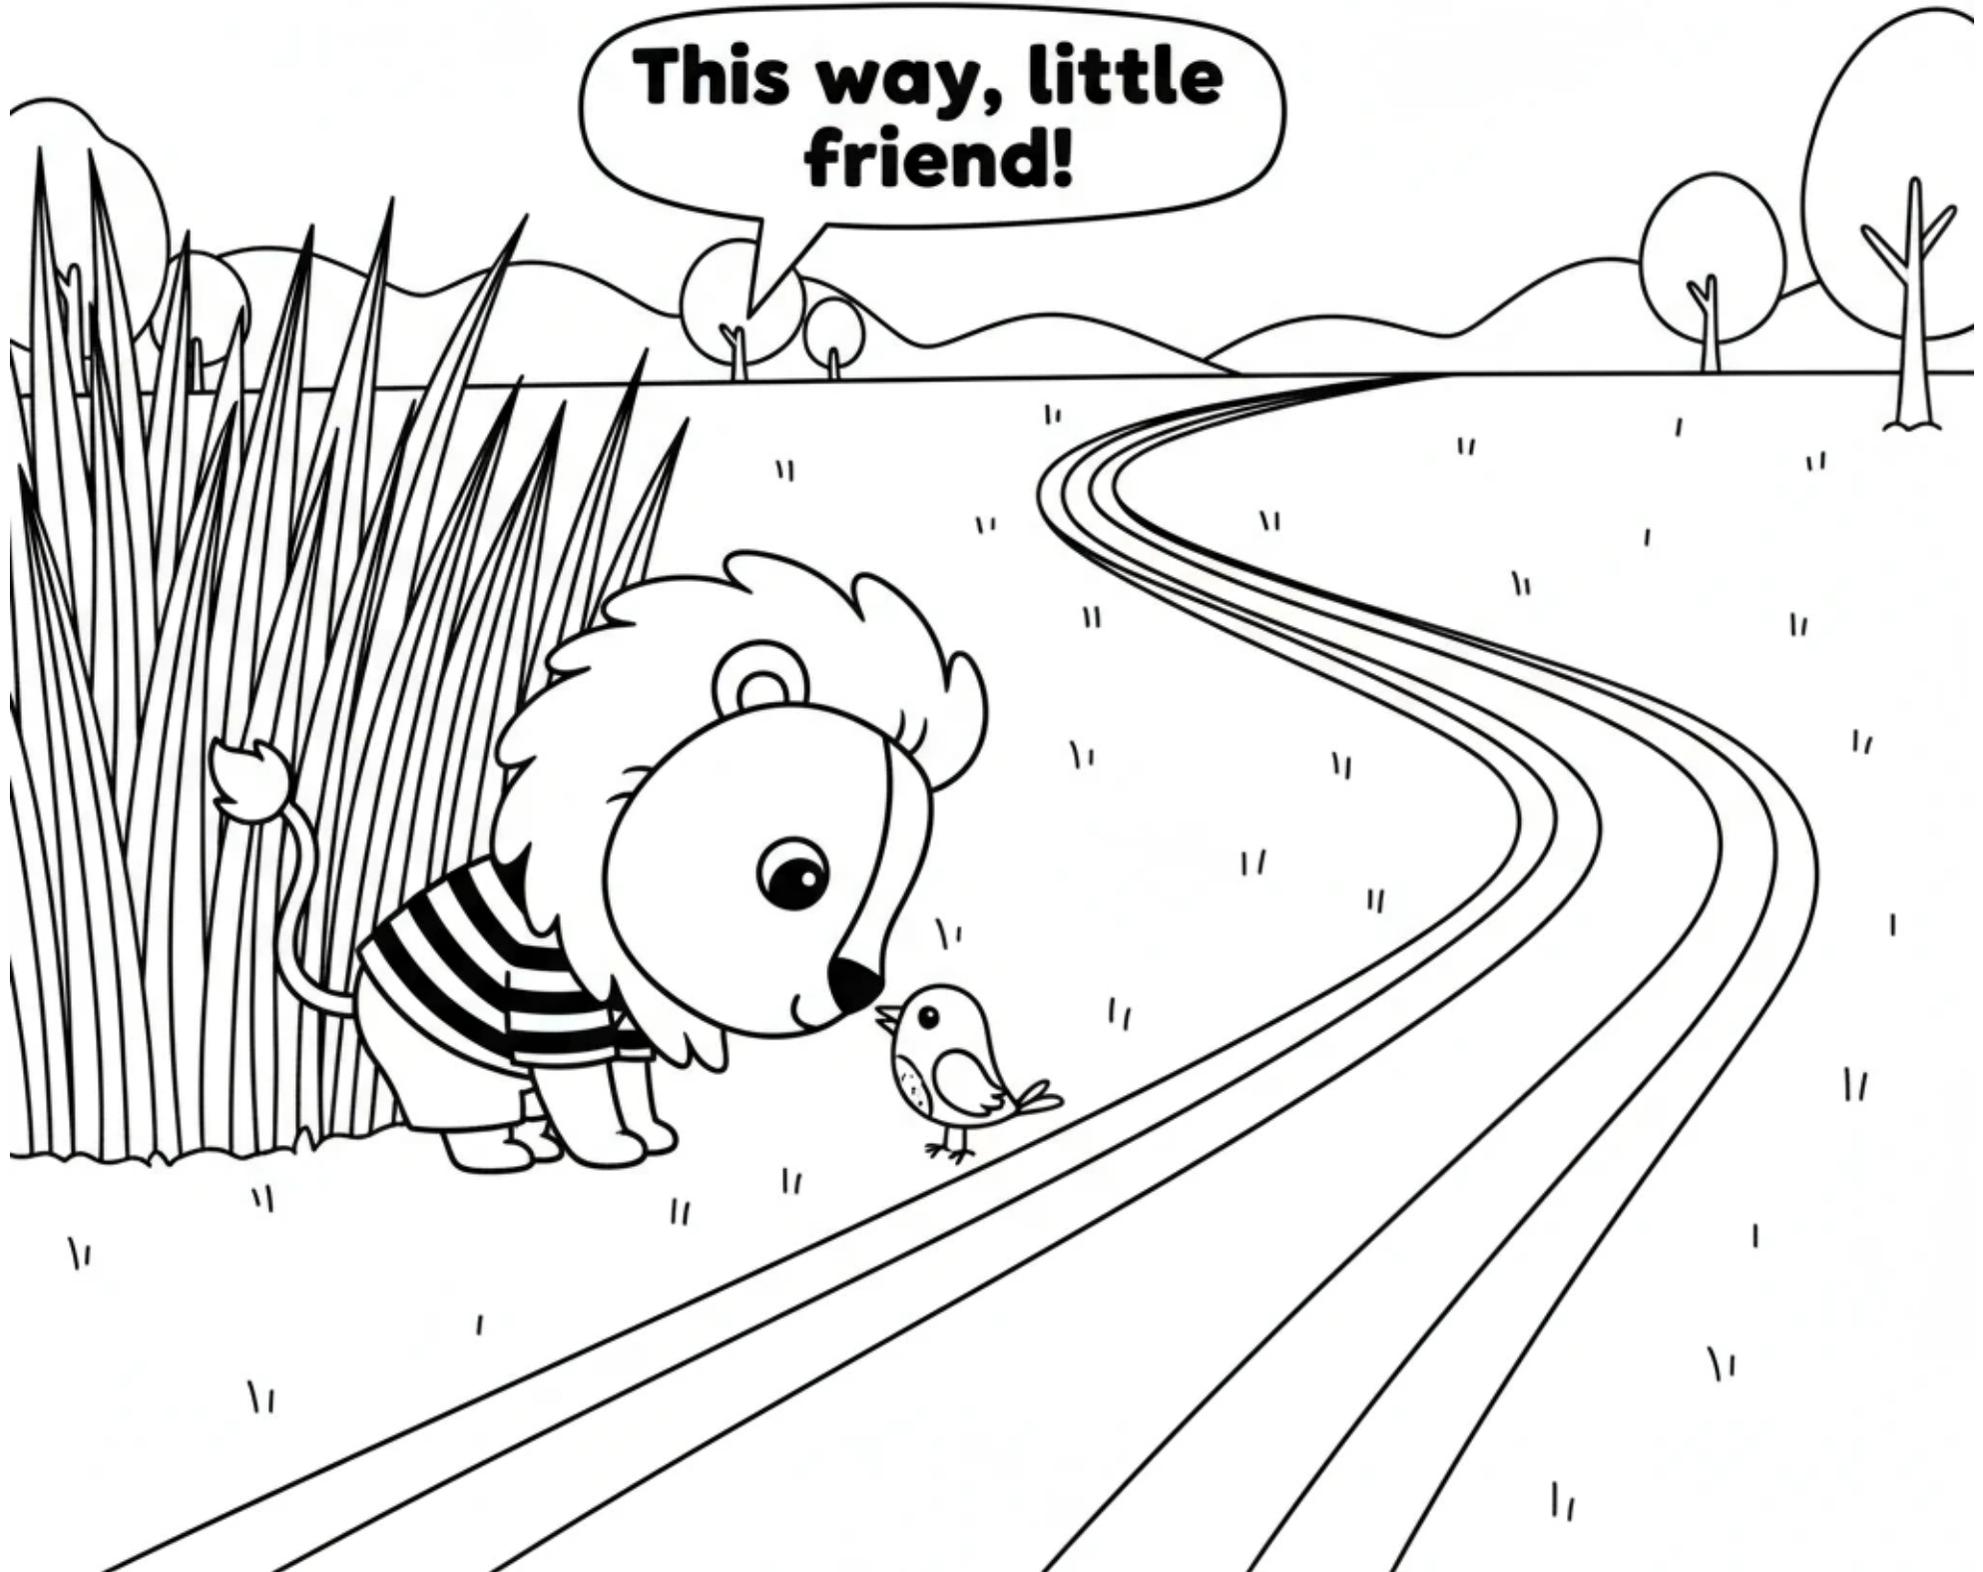

Suddenly, a tiny bird, no bigger than his paw, fluttered down nearby. It looked lost and chirped a small worried song. Leo tilted his head, feeling a pang of sympathy.

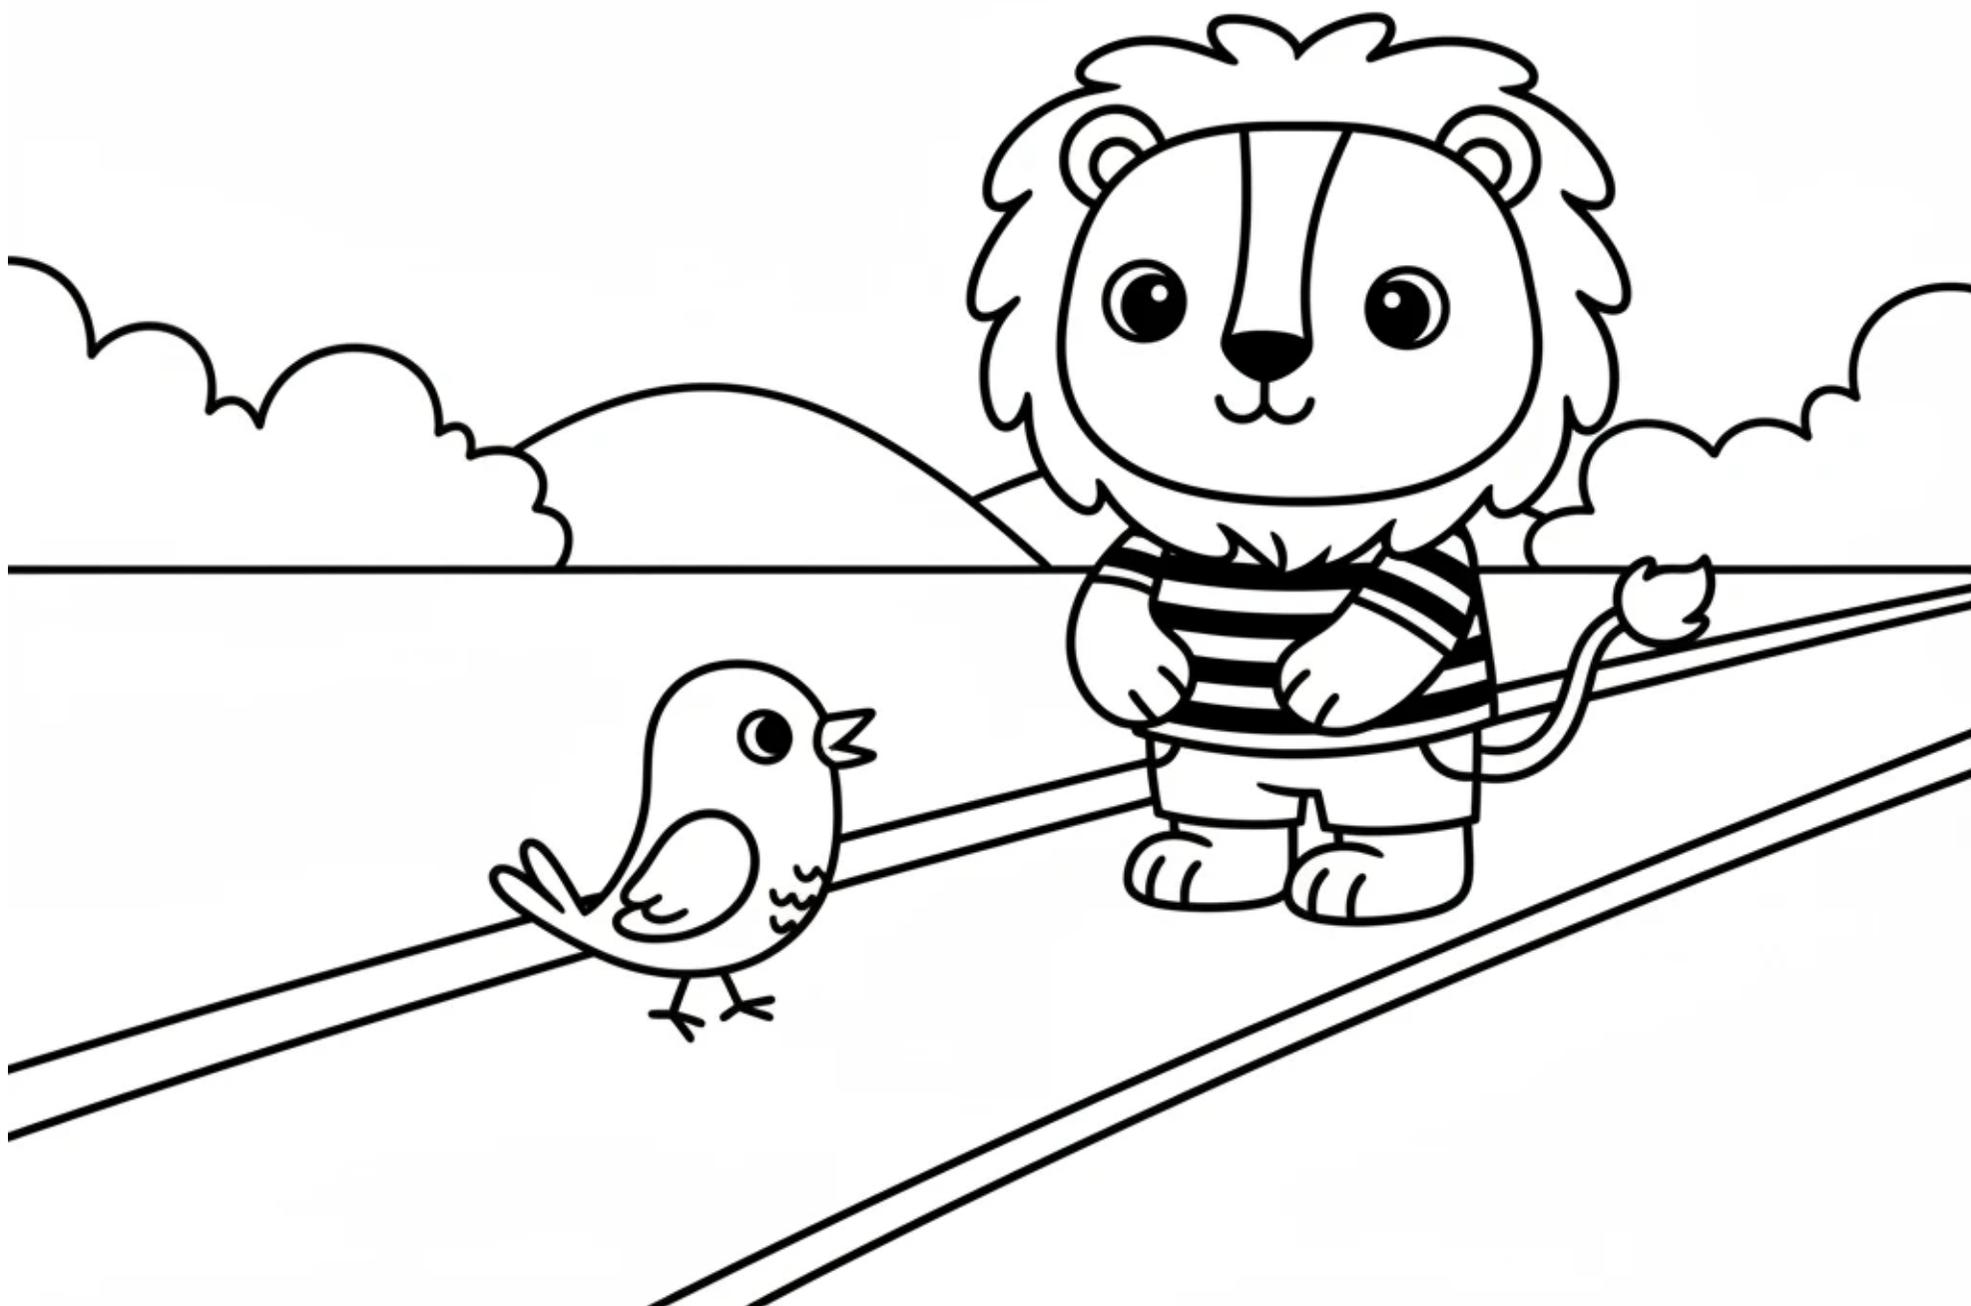

LEO KNEW HE HAD TO HELP THE LITTLE BIRD.

This way, little friend!

Scene 6: The bird understood! It hopped along the path, looking back at Leo with grateful eyes. Leo watched, his large paws softly on the ground.

Soon, the bird saw its family chirping happily in a leafy tree. It flew up, joining them with a joyful trill. Leo felt a wonderful warmth spread through his chest.

A big, happy smile spread across Leo's face. He hadn't roared like the others, but he had helped a friend.

HIS OWN SPECIAL SOUND!

Hearing his happy sound, the other cubs invited Leo to play.
