

Ara and the Magic Shield: A Garuda's Guide to Kindness

Firdausa Mukhlis faturrohman

As the golden morning sun rises over a lush Indonesian village, a cute, chubby baby Garuda bird named Ara spreads his soft feathers and takes flight. With big, sparkly eyes and a joyful smile, he glides low over the green fields, happily chirping a warm greeting to the waking world below.

Perched comfortably on a mossy tree branch, Ara points a soft wing toward the shiny, polished shield resting on his chest. The beautiful shield is divided into vibrant quarters of red, white, and black, gleaming gently under the whimsical forest light as Ara prepares to share its magical secrets.

The first secret of the shield shines as bright as a golden star in the dark night sky, guiding hearts toward faith and gratitude. Down in a cozy dining room, a young boy and girl bow their heads and close their eyes, whispering a gentle prayer of thanks before enjoying their morning meal together.

Next, a strong golden chain with interlocking links shines on Ara's shield, symbolizing the unbreakable bond of human kindness. At the school playground, this harmony comes alive when a sweet boy smiles warmly and reaches out his hand to help up a classmate who just stumbled.

Deep in the forest, a grand Banyan tree spreads its thick green leaves and playful hanging roots, offering a cool, protective shade for everyone. Beneath its majestic branches, a diverse group of children holding hands in a circle laugh and dance together in perfect unity.

A friendly black bull's head on a bright red background represents the wisdom of listening and talking things out together. In a cheerful classroom, a group of elementary students sit in a cozy circle, enthusiastically sharing ideas and working as a team on their new project.

The final part of the shield blooms with soft white cotton and golden stalks of rice, bringing promises of fairness and prosperity for all. Inspired by this balance, the children happily work together in their classroom, sharing chores equally with big smiles on their faces.

Flying gracefully through the air, Ara holds a magical, flowing white silk ribbon firmly but gently within his golden talons. Written clearly upon the smooth fabric are the beautiful words 'Bhinneka Tunggal Ika,' reminding everyone that we are wonderfully united despite our differences.

Back at home, the magic of the shield is alive as a little girl happily helps her mother wipe the kitchen counters while her brother neatly organizes his school books. Peeking through the cozy window, Ara watches them with a proud smile, giving a warm thumbs-up with his wing.

As the day comes to an end, Ara soars high into a breathtaking sunset painted with soft peach, pink, and purple clouds. Looking back one last time, the lovable little Garuda waves a golden wing goodbye, leaving a legacy of love, unity, and kindness in every heart.