Spring had arrived in the village of Gilfach Goch, painting the hills in bright greens and yellows. Golden daffodils swayed in the breeze while birds chirped happy songs from the budding trees.

Inside Hendreforgan Primary School, Eva and her friends listened with wide eyes as their teacher shared a secret. A special visitor had been spotted in the village, leaving magical clues for a grand Easter hunt.

The adventure began in the school garden, where a trail of shimmering sparkles caught the light. Eva pointed to the soft earth, discovering a line of tiny, fuzzy paw prints leading the way.

Giggling with excitement, the children followed the tracks all the way to the big oak tree in Gilfach Goch Park. Tucked into the bark was an orange note that told them to hop along and count the eggs.

The friends hopped like bunnies down the village street, their eyes searching every nook and cranny. The sun shone brightly as they began their quest to find the hidden treasures.

Axel spotted a shiny blue egg, Olivia found two spotty green ones, and Blake discovered three yellow eggs by a wooden bench. Together, they cheered and counted their colorful prizes out loud.

Eva and the Space Carrot

Their journey led them to the old stone bridge, where a beautiful wicker basket was waiting. Jessica reached inside to find a green note that pointed them toward a rainbow and a place where flowers grow.

Racing with joy, the children ran toward the village community garden, following the colorful flowers that looked just like a rainbow. The air was sweet with the scent of spring blossoms.

There, sitting peacefully on a mossy rock, was the Easter Bunny himself, nibbling on a crunchy orange carrot. He looked up with a twitch of his nose and a friendly twinkle in his eyes.

With a magical flick of his fluffy tail, the Bunny revealed a giant basket overflowing with chocolate eggs and stickers. The children hopped for joy, celebrating the most wonderful Easter Gilfach Goch had ever seen.
