

ily's Happy Check-Up

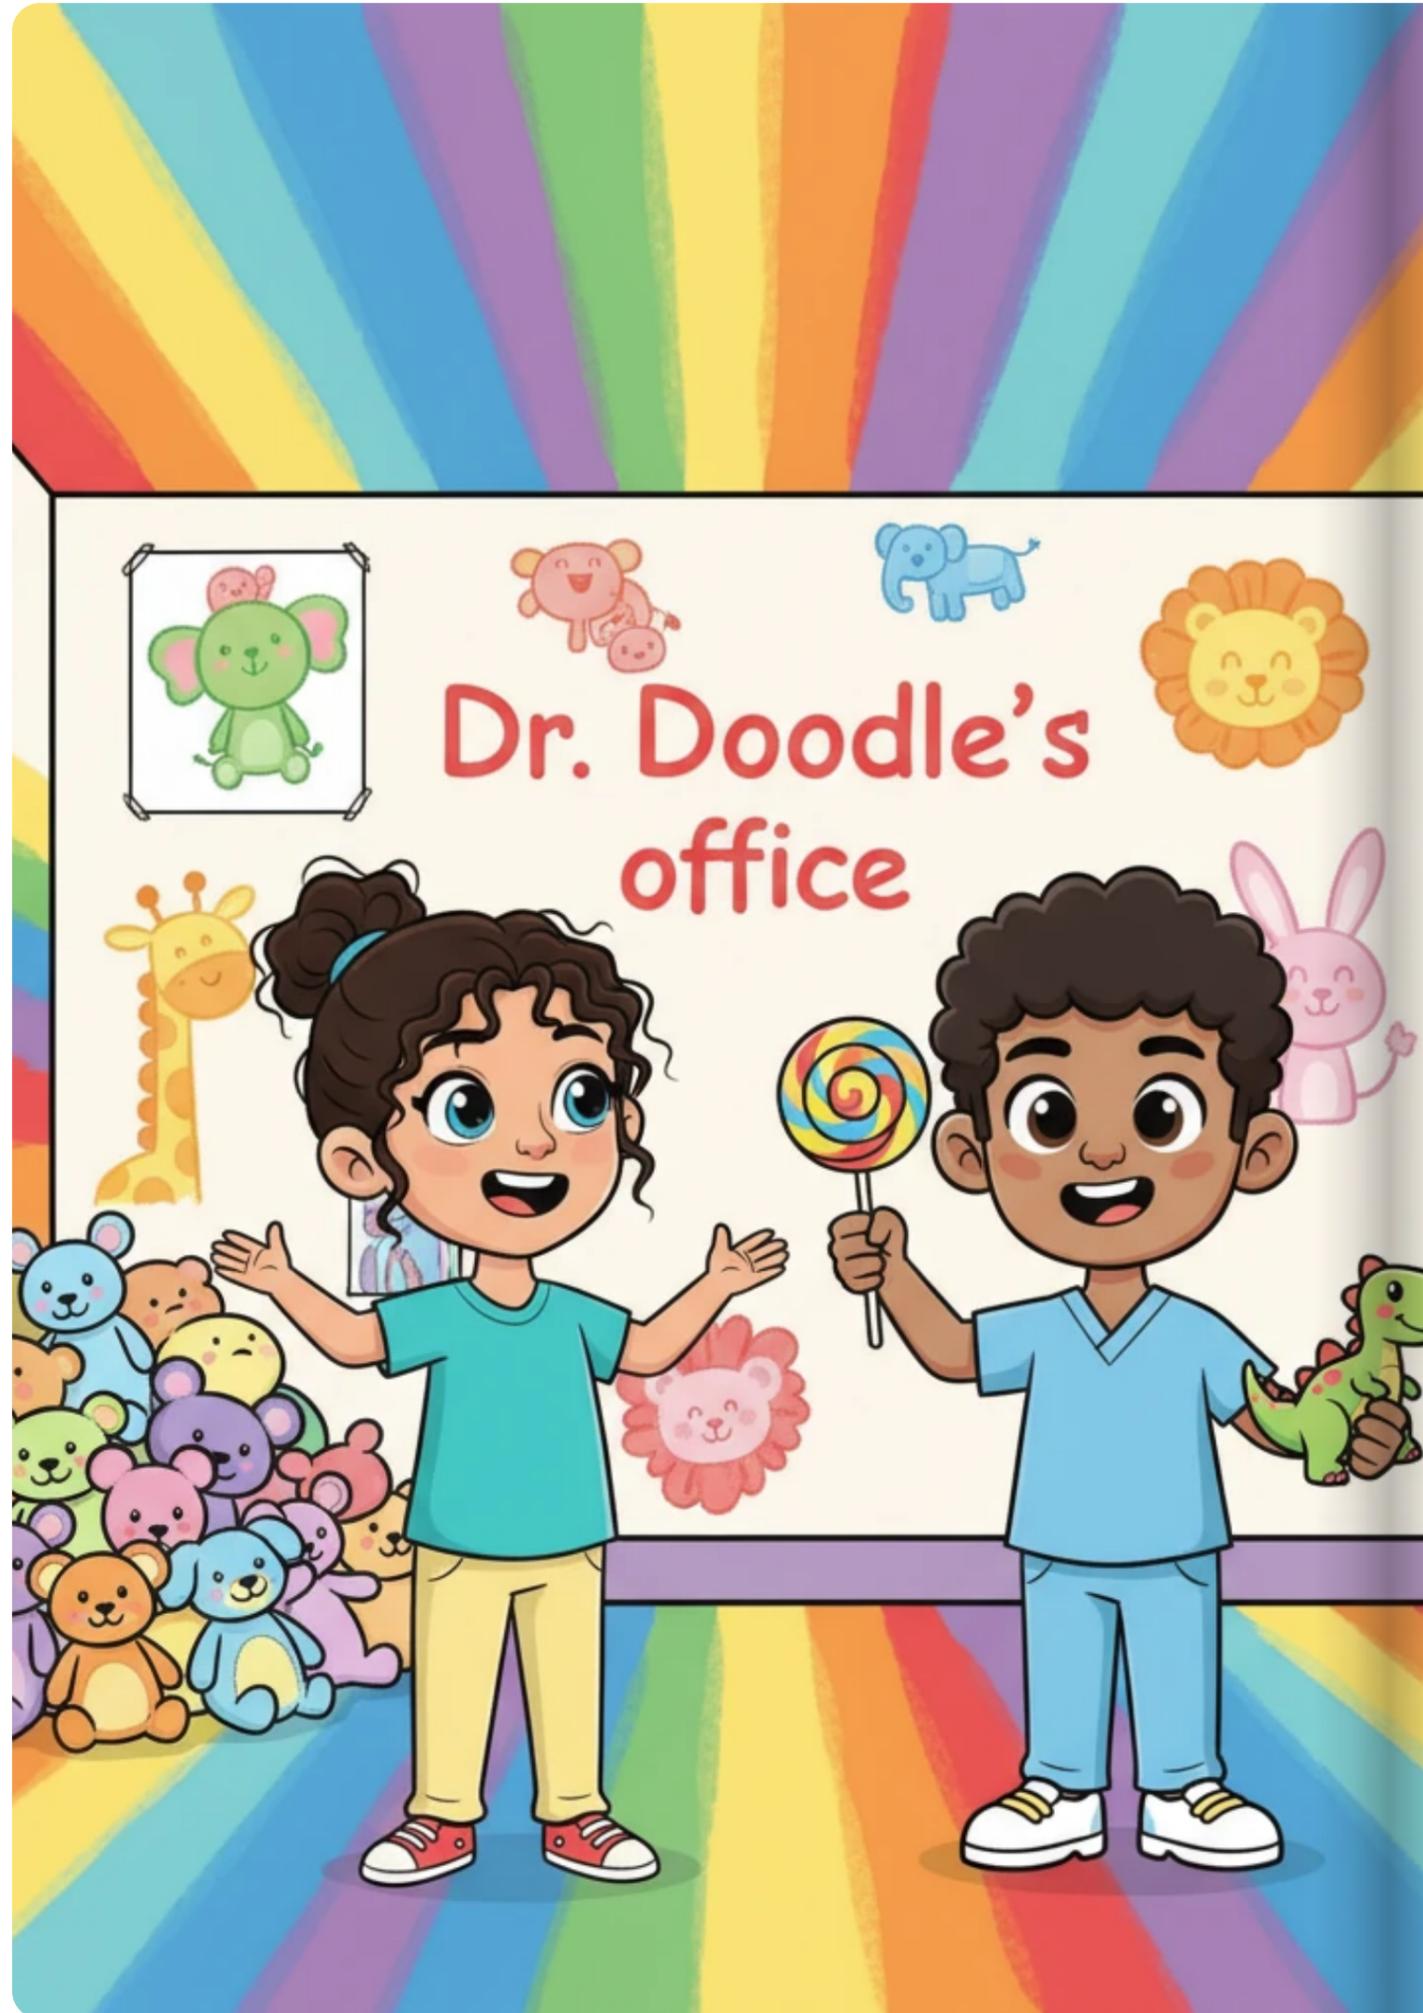

Lily's Happy Check-Up

Himanshu Uniyal

Lily woke up with a tiny sniffle, her nose a little bit red like a cherry. Her thoughtful mom gave her a gentle hug and suggested a special trip to see the very best helper, Dr. Doodle. Lily's big eyes widened with a mix of curiosity and a tiny bit of worry about the unknown.

They arrived at Dr. Doodle's office, which was painted in every color of the rainbow, making it feel like a giant art project. Playful animal drawings adorned the walls, and soft, squishy toys were piled high in a corner. The waiting room felt like a happy playground, not a stuffy clinic.

A door swung open, and out popped Dr. Doodle, a tall, friendly doctor with a bright smile and glasses that perched comically on her nose. She had a big, welcoming wave and asked Lily, "Ready for our adventure today?" Lily giggled, feeling a little less shy and a lot more excited.

Inside the examination room, Dr. Doodle helped Lily stand on a giant, friendly scale that looked like a smiling bear. Then, she measured Lily's height against a wall chart covered in silly cartoon animals growing taller and taller. Lily stretched her neck, trying to reach the highest giraffe with a playful grin.

Next, Dr. Doodle pulled out a shiny stethoscope, shaped like a friendly snake ready to listen to secrets. She placed the cool disc on Lily's chest, listening intently, then made a funny "thump-thump-swoosh" sound with her mouth. Lily laughed, her chest tickling slightly from the silly imitation.

With a tiny, glowing light, Dr. Doodle peeked into Lily's ears, pretending to search for a hidden treasure map inside. "Aha!" she exclaimed, winking playfully, "Looks like we found two perfectly healthy listening posts!" Lily wiggled her ears, delighted by the fun game.

"Open wide, like a brave lion!" Dr. Doodle encouraged, holding up a bright, fruity-smelling tongue depressor. Lily opened her mouth bravely, and Dr. Doodle quickly checked her throat, making a soft "ahh" sound herself. It was quick and not scary at all, just a swift peek.

Dr. Doodle gave Lily a big thumbs-up and a cheerful smile that reached her eyes. "You are one super-duper healthy kid, Lily!" she announced with a flourish. "Just keep resting, drinking water, and having fun, and you'll be bouncing like a bunny in no time!"

As a special treat for being so brave and cooperative, Dr. Doodle let Lily pick a sparkly sticker from a huge treasure chest filled with colorful options. Lily chose a sticker of a flying unicorn, beaming with pride at her reward.

Holding her magical unicorn sticker, Lily waved goodbye to Dr. Doodle, feeling much better and not scared of doctors anymore. She skipped out of the office, ready to tell her mom all about her fun and friendly adventure at the doctor's.