

Pip and the Big Bubbles

Lauren DiBenedetto

Pip is a little dog with a big red hat. Today, Pip has a tub of soap and a stick in the bright sun. He is ready to play in the yard.

Pip dips the stick into the wet tub. He blows gently, and out pops a big shiny bubble! The bubble floats up, up, up into the air.

A tiny red bug sits on a green leaf. The red bug looks up and sees the big bubble float by. The bug gives a happy little hop.

The big bubble flies past Sam the fat cat. Sam is sitting on a warm log in the sun. Sam opens his eyes wide and watches the bubble drift away.

Sam reaches out a paw to pat the smooth bubble. He reaches high, but his paw misses! The bubble keeps spinning softly in the air.

POP! The big bubble pops with a little splash! Wet drops fall down on the green grass. Pip and Sam wag their tails and jump with joy.

Pip dips his stick into the tub one more time. He blows fast, and lots of tiny bubbles fill the air! Bubbles drift everywhere in the sun.

A hen and a pig come to look at all the floating bubbles. The tiny bubbles bob and dip in the soft wind. Everyone gets ready to play together.

Pip, Sam, the hen, and the pig run and hop around the yard. They pop the bubbles with their noses and paws. Pop, pop, pop goes the fun!

The sun goes down, and the yard grows quiet. Pip is a very tired pup who curls up in his cozy bed. He dreams of big, shiny bubbles floating high in the sky.
