

Our Story – Happy Birthday Thangame

23PUCAS14 FATHIMA S

Diya and Meera sat in the very same classroom during their final years of school, surrounded by soft morning light. Though they shared the same space every single day, they only knew each other by face and never spoke a word. It was a quiet prelude to a destiny they could not yet see.

After school ended, fate quietly brought them to the exact same college campus, though their paths diverged into different courses. Diya studied B.Com (CA) while Meera pursued B.Com (General), and a whole month passed in the bustling crowds without them ever crossing paths.

One warm evening, while sitting with mutual friends at a small, glowing roadside noodle shop, their eyes suddenly met. Meera looked up, smiled warmly, and softly asked, "Neeyum indha college-ah?" That single, simple question broke the silence of years and sparked the beginning of a beautiful journey.

As the golden days of college passed, they began spending every single evening together with their group of friends. They laughed, teased each other endlessly, and slowly became completely inseparable. Even their daily, playful arguments only served to pull them closer together instead of pushing them apart.

One morning, Meera visited a temple and did not come to college, leaving the bustling campus feeling entirely empty to Diya. Walking through the quiet hallways alone, Diya deeply missed her presence and suddenly realized that her feelings had blossomed into a profound love.

Soon after, their first major disagreement cast a shadow over them, and they stopped speaking completely. During lunch, Diya watched quietly from the classroom window as Meera sat all alone on a bench without eating a single bite. Swallowing her anger, Diya secretly sent a mutual friend over with food to ensure she stayed healthy.

That evening, Diya found Meera crying softly near a small, brightly lit ice cream shop, and all her lingering anger instantly melted away. After a sincere apology, they began walking together under the twilight sky in gentle silence. For the very first time, Diya reached out and softly held her hand, making time feel as though it had completely stopped.

Wanting to give something deeply meaningful, Diya spent hours crafting a beautiful, handmade birthday gift filled with all their shared memories. When Meera unwrapped it, tears of pure happiness filled her eyes, followed by overwhelming emotion when she was surprised with a delicate, heartfelt ring.

Their days continued to be filled with little daily bickerings and silly disagreements, but neither of them ever thought about walking away. Every minor conflict ended not in distance, but in shared laughter, deeper understanding, and a love that grew stronger with each passing moment.

On her special day, the room glowed magically with delicate fairy lights, colorful balloons, and lovely handmade decorations. As they looked through a beautiful scrapbook of their journey together, they smiled warmly and held hands under the soft evening sky next to a flickering birthday cake. The story sweetens the air with the final words: "Happy Birthday, Thangame. Nee eppovum sirichitte iru. Un kanavugal ellam nijamaagattum. Namma rendu perum... Forever. I Love You Forever." ❤️