

Jasper's Gentle Squeeze

Lizabeth Severson

A vibrant cartoon illustration of a young boy, Jasper, with exaggerated proportions and expressive features. He is sitting on a colorful rug surrounded by bright, oversized building blocks. One tall block tower has just tumbled down. Jasper's face shows clear frustration, with slightly furrowed brows and a small pout. His hands are clenched lightly at his sides. The background is a cheerful kindergarten classroom with playful details.

A whimsical cartoon illustration showing Jasper's internal feeling. Jasper stands with a slightly concerned expression. Above his head, a thought bubble or a transparent overlay shows a stylized, simplified image of a mouth with tiny, harmless-looking teeth, conveying the *urge* to bite, not the act itself. The colors are still bright but with a hint of a "stormy" blue or purple around the thought bubble to show big feelings. Other children are playing happily in the background, out of focus.

A bright and friendly cartoon illustration of Jasper and his kind teacher, Ms. Lily. Ms. Lily has a warm smile and gentle, exaggerated gestures. She is holding out a brightly colored, soft, squishy stress ball towards Jasper. Jasper looks at the ball with curiosity. The classroom setting is cheerful and inviting, with smooth lines and bold outlines.

A dynamic cartoon illustration of Jasper actively using the stress ball. His eyes are wide with concentration as he squeezes the colorful, squishy ball with both hands. His face, initially tense, is now showing a subtle shift towards calm, perhaps a slight relaxation of his brows. The squishy ball is comically stretched and compressed to emphasize the action. Bright, cheerful colors dominate the scene.

A joyful and vibrant cartoon illustration of Jasper playing happily and calmly with other children. Jasper is smiling broadly. He is holding his squishy stress ball gently in one hand or it is visible nearby. The children are engaged in a fun activity, like building or drawing, with exaggerated smiles and playful poses. The scene radiates warmth, friendship, and happiness, with bright, smooth lines and a lighthearted atmosphere.