

The Lost Code

Fabiano Oliveira

GUARDIÕES DO TEMMO

Panel 1: Noisy Disruption

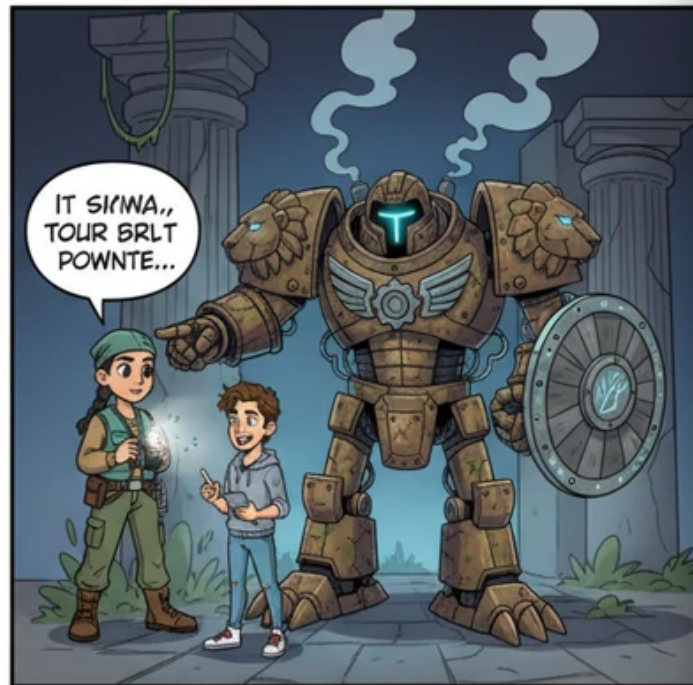

Panel 2: Investigation

Panel 4: United Front (and Surprise)

Léo sits in his dark room, the green glow of an ancient computer screen reflecting in his glasses. He has just stumbled upon a hidden directory containing a mysterious file named Project Aurora that seems to pulse with its own rhythm.

Léo seeks out Maya, a renowned expert in ancient puzzles and modern encryption, in her workshop filled with strange gadgets. Together, they examine the glowing code on a holographic display, realizing it is a map to a forgotten digital realm.

TRAVELING TO THE HEART...

THE PATH IS REVEALAD...

The duo travels to a remote, abandoned industrial facility where the physical entrance to the central server is hidden. They stand before a massive steel structure that has been sealed for decades, surrounded by overgrown vines and rusted pipes.

A giant metallic door looms over them, covered in complex electronic symbols that pulse with a faint, rhythmic light. Maya connects her decoding device to the interface, her fingers moving quickly as she analyzes the shifting patterns.

As Maya works on the lock, the ground begins to vibrate with the deep hum of waking machinery. Léo monitors the system's defensive response on his tablet, knowing they only have one chance to enter the correct sequence before the system resets.

The heavy door finally groans and slides open with a hiss of pressurized air, revealing a dark corridor illuminated by glowing blue data lines. A cold breeze blows from within, carrying the scent of ozone and ancient electronics.

From the shadows of the corridor, the Guardian emerges, its massive metallic frame towering over the two explorers. Its eyes ignite with a piercing red light as it identifies them as unauthorized intruders, its mechanical joints clicking into a defensive stance.

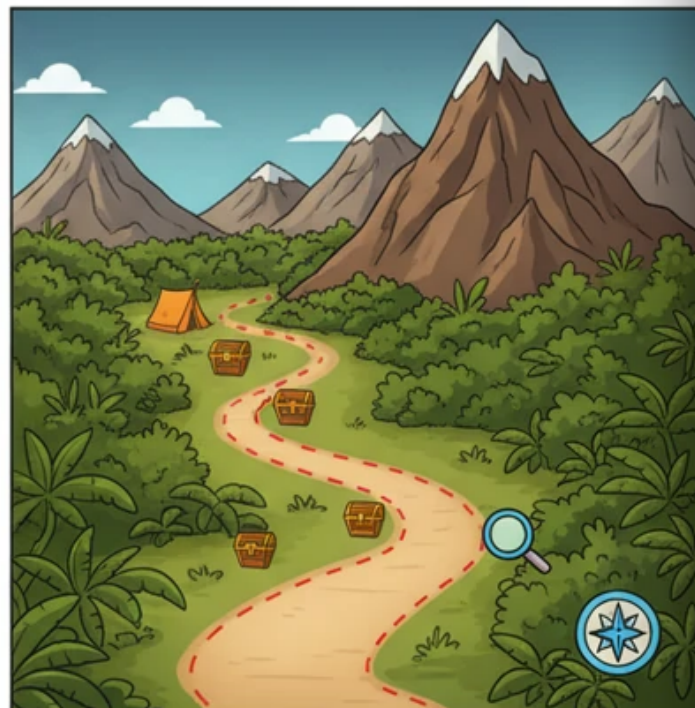

PERSONAGANES DA SÉRIE

The Guardian raises its heavy arms, blocking the path and preparing to initiate a system purge to protect the core. Léo steps forward, his voice steady despite his fear, as he prepares to recite the ancient override code found in the hidden file.

As the last word of the code leaves Léo's lips, the Guardian's red eyes flicker and turn a calm, soft blue. The giant robot bows its head and steps back into the shadows, its mechanical hum softening into a peaceful standby mode.

The final barrier dissolves, revealing a magnificent city of light and data stretching into the infinite digital horizon. Léo and Maya stand at the edge of the core, witnessing the breathtaking beauty of a world built entirely of pure information.