Sam was a small boy who loved the sea more than anything else. Every day, he played on the warm sandy beach, feeling the salt air and listening to the waves.

One sunny morning, Sam found something magical half-buried in the sand. It was a glowing blue bottle that shimmered with a mysterious, soft light.

Inside the bottle was a tiny message that said, "Help! The sea dolphin is lost in the coral cave!" Sam's heart raced as he realized a sea friend needed his help.

Suddenly, a friendly light-blue dolphin jumped high out of the sparkling ocean waves. It landed with a joyful splash and looked at Sam with kind, intelligent eyes.

“I will help you find your friend,” Sam said bravely to the dolphin. The dolphin swam close to the shore, and Sam gently climbed onto its smooth, cool back.

They swam deep into the ocean where the sun's rays turned the water into liquid gold. Colorful fish swirled around them like dancing stars as they journeyed through the coral reefs.

Soon, they reached the entrance of a dark and mysterious coral cave. Sam whispered that it was very quiet here as they peered carefully into the dim blue light.

Inside the cave, a small baby dolphin was gently stuck behind some thick sea plants. It let out a soft cry, looking very worried and lonely in the shadows.

“Don’t worry, we will get you out!” Sam said as he reached out to help. Together, Sam and the big dolphin carefully pulled away the seaweed until the baby was finally free.

All the dolphins celebrated with leaps and whistles in the glowing water. Sam smiled happily on the dolphin's back, knowing he would always be a true hero of the sea.
