Nico and the Unexpected Friend

Daniel Calderon Zariñan

In a peaceful and sun-dappled forest, a small rabbit named Nico wakes up in his tidy burrow. He prepares for his day with quiet focus, surrounded by the soft morning light and the gentle rustle of leaves.

Nico arrives at his workplace in the woods, immediately starting his tasks with great dedication. He works harder than anyone else, but he keeps his head down and moves in silence, never stopping to exchange a word with those around him.

Nearby, the other forest animals gather to play and chat, but they stay away from Nico's corner. They whisper that he is a bit strange because he never smiles, and they decide it is better to leave the quiet rabbit alone.

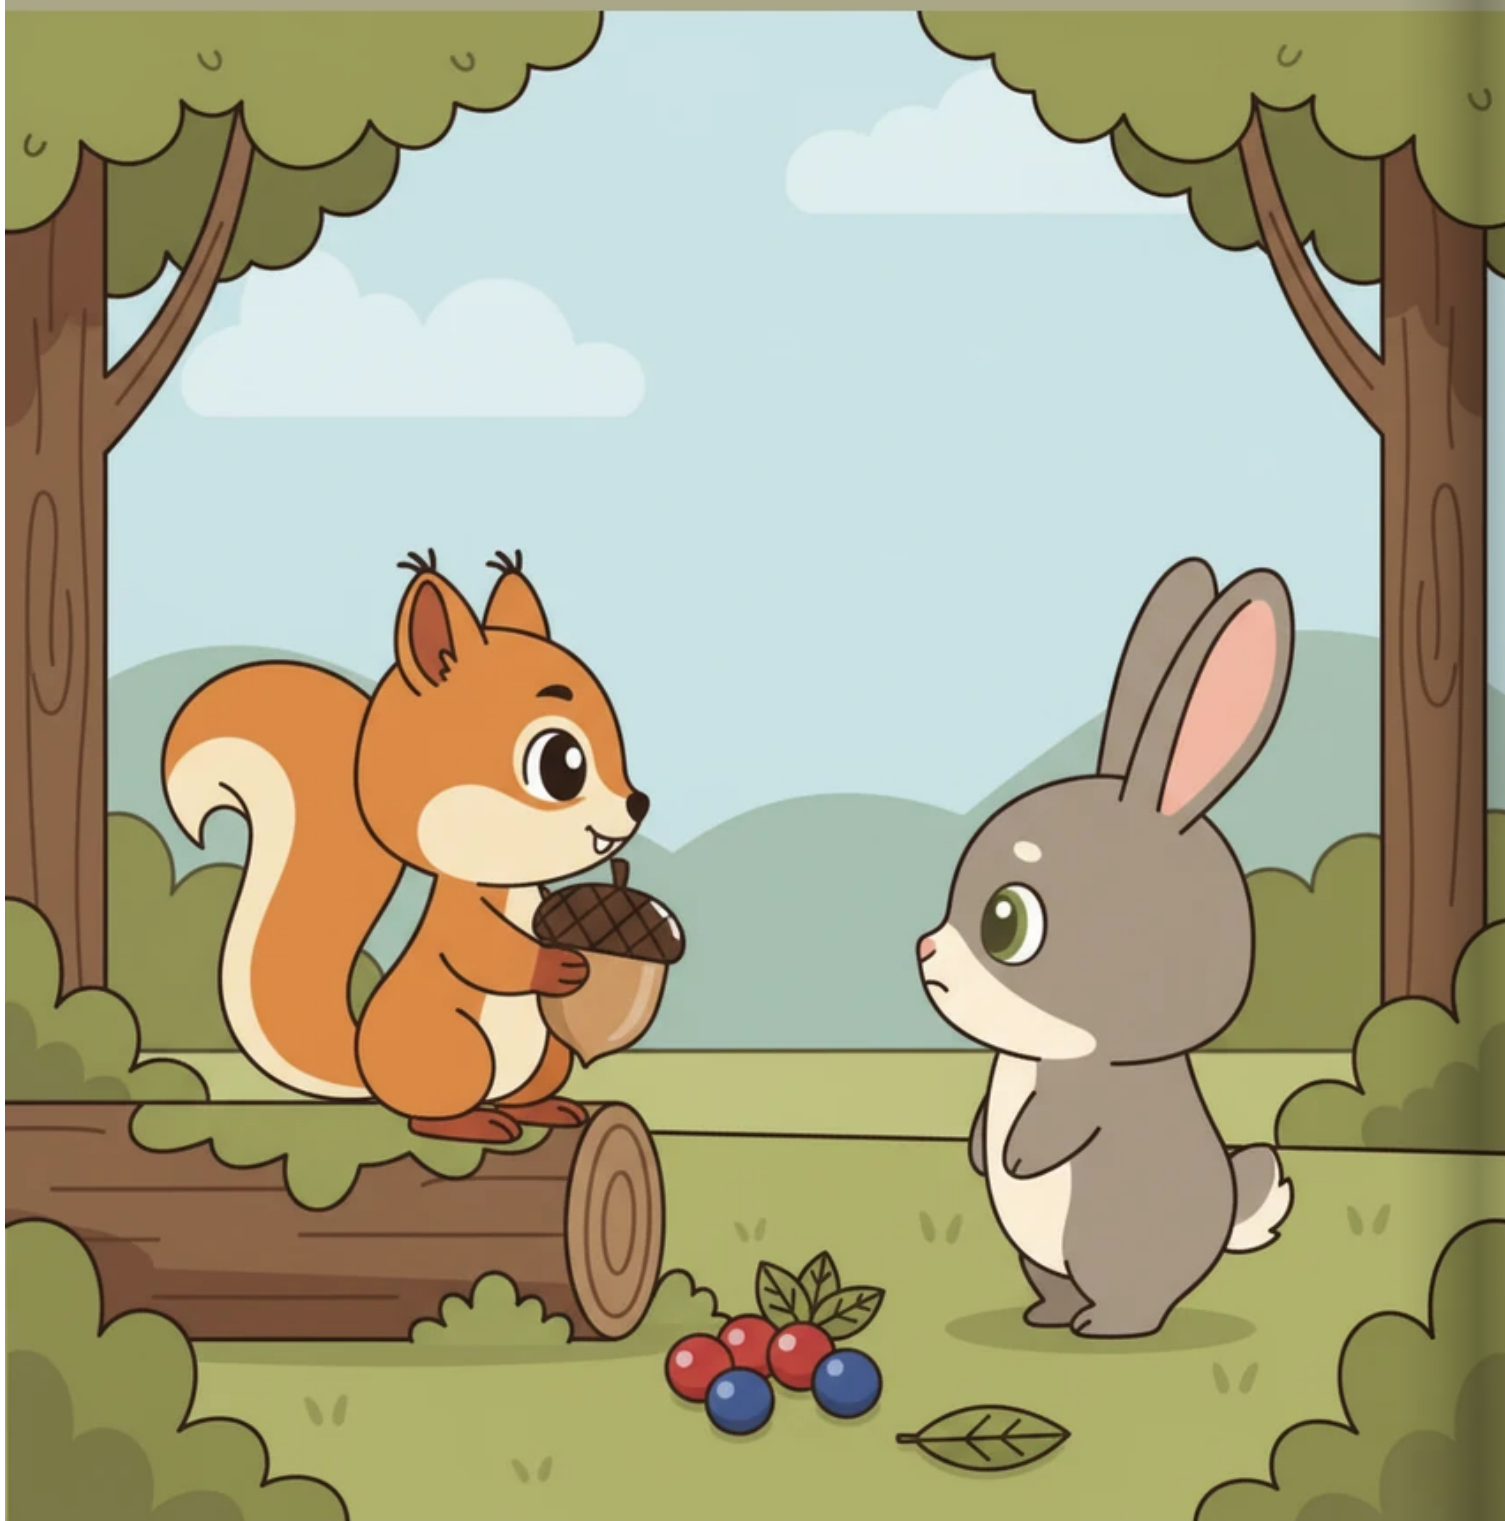

The atmosphere changes when a cheerful squirrel named Lila joins the group as a new worker. She is a burst of energy with bright fur and a constant, radiant smile that seems to light up the entire clearing.

Lila spends her first morning hopping from one animal to another, offering help and sharing happy stories. She loves making new friends and her laughter echoes through the trees, bringing a new sense of joy to the forest.

While taking a short break, Lila notices Nico working diligently all by himself in a shaded area. While everyone else is socializing and laughing together, she sees the solitary rabbit focused entirely on his work.

With a kind heart and a wide smile, Lila decides to walk over to the quiet corner where Nico is sitting. She moves with a friendly skip, carrying her bright and welcoming energy toward the lonely rabbit.

Lila stands right in front of Nico and greets him with a cheerful wave and a warm voice. She introduces herself with genuine excitement, her eyes sparkling with the hope of making a new connection.

Nico looks up from his work, his eyes wide with surprise because no one has approached him in a very long time. He feels a bit shy and nervous, but he manages to respond in a soft, quiet voice to tell her his name.

Even though Nico is a rabbit of few words, Lila decides right then and there that she wants to be his friend. She stays by his side, proving that a little bit of kindness is all it takes to start a beautiful new chapter.
