

THE LITTLE SEED'S JOURNEY

The Little Seed's Journey

SALSABEEL Al Hamad

Pip, a tiny, round seed, nestled deep in the warm, dark soil. He had big dreams of growing tall and strong, reaching for the sky, and often imagined what it would be like to be a big tree. His little seed-face held a look of hopeful wonder.

One morning, a gentle pitter-patter began. Cool raindrops soaked into the earth all around Pip. He happily drank the fresh water, feeling a joyful tingle spread through his tiny self as the soil became soft and welcoming.

Pip felt a new energy awaken as his tiny root began to curl downwards, anchoring him gently in his earthy bed. He stretched a little, feeling ready for whatever exciting adventure was next on his journey.

Then, a warm, golden glow pierced through the soil above him. It was the sun, shining brightly and beckoning Pip upwards with its gentle, encouraging warmth. He could feel its comforting light even from below the ground.

With a mighty push, Pip broke free from the soil! He was no longer just a seed, but a tiny green sprout, reaching eagerly for the sky. Two small, vibrant leaves unfurled, greeting the big, bright world.

Day after day, Pip soaked up the golden sun and drank the refreshing rain. He grew taller and stronger, his stem thickening and more bright green leaves unfurling, turning him into a lively young plant standing proudly.

Soon, Pip was a sturdy sapling, with a small trunk beginning to form and many branches reaching out like welcoming arms. He stood tall, swaying gently in the breeze, his leaves dancing happily in the light.

Birds came to build cozy nests in his branches, and playful squirrels scampered up his trunk, chasing each other through his leaves. Pip loved having so many cheerful friends around him, making his branches their home.

Pip continued to grow, becoming a magnificent tree with a wide, leafy canopy. His strong branches provided cool, comforting shade for all who rested beneath him, offering a peaceful spot on sunny days.

Finally, Pip was a majestic, grand tree, providing fresh, clean air and a beautiful, towering home for many creatures. He remembered his tiny dream and smiled, knowing he had grown into something truly wonderful for everyone.
