

Leo's Magical Sharing Tree

Laura Llarens

Leo the little bear found a giant, shiny red apple resting under the ancient oak tree. It was the biggest, most beautiful apple he had ever seen, and his tummy rumbled with hunger.

On his way home to enjoy his prize, Leo met Mia the squirrel, who was crying because she had spent all day searching but could not find any food for her hungry family.

Leo looked at his magnificent apple and felt a squeeze in his heart. With a warm smile, he broke the giant apple in half and handed the larger piece to a very grateful Mia.

Continuing his journey through the woods, Leo came across Toby the turtle, who was moving very slowly and looking completely exhausted from the summer heat.

Toby explained that he was too tired to reach the river for a drink, so Leo gladly offered his remaining piece of apple to refresh his friend, leaving nothing for himself.

Toby smiled brightly as his energy returned, and even though Leo's tummy was still empty, a wonderful warmth bloomed inside his chest from helping his friends.

Suddenly, a gentle breeze swept through the forest, and a magical golden bird flew down from the sky, dropping three glowing seeds into Leo's paws as a reward for his kindness.

Leo called Mia and Toby back, and together the three friends planted the glowing seeds into the soft forest soil and watered them with care.

Before their eyes, a magnificent new tree grew instantly, its branches instantly heavy with countless delicious fruits of every color imaginable.

All the forest animals gathered around to celebrate, and Leo happily realized that by sharing his single apple, he had gained a whole garden of joy and a lifetime of true friendship.
