

Sunny's Big Bright Day

by Tanica Medina

Sunny, a tiny sunbeam, peeked out from behind a fluffy cloud. He felt so small and insignificant, worried he wouldn't make a difference. The world looked vast and full of things much bigger than he was, making him feel a bit gloomy.

He saw a drooping flower in a nearby garden, its petals all closed and sad. Sunny, feeling a flicker of courage, decided to shine his light upon it. The flower seemed to sigh with relief.

Slowly, the flower's petals began to unfurl, reaching towards Sunny's warm glow. A bright smile appeared on its face as it drank in the sunlight. The flower bloomed, showing off its beautiful colors.

Nearby, a small bird sat perched on a branch, looking tired and still. Sunny decided to shine on the bird, hoping to bring it some cheer. The bird perked up instantly.

The bird began to sing a sweet, happy melody, filling the air with joy. It fluttered its wings, ready to take flight once again, completely refreshed by Sunny's gentle light.

The big sun, watching from afar, smiled warmly. He said, "Even the smallest light can brighten the world." Sunny, feeling proud and full of warmth, understood that kindness made a big difference, no matter how small you are.
