

Tbilisi's Twists and Turns

by Чехрона Абдушаитова

Emma and Sofia arrived in Tbilisi, their eyes wide with excitement. They checked into a cozy hotel, its windows promising views of the charming city. Settling in quickly, they knew their trip was going to be filled with unforgettable experiences.

The next morning, Emma and Sofia decided to explore the woods near the city. They strolled along a winding path, chatting and laughing. But the path, in a twist of fate, led them right back to their hotel!

Sofia, with a thoughtful look, exclaimed, "Wow, we're real explorers - we just discovered our hotel twice!" They both burst into laughter, ready for their next adventure in Tbilisi. Their day had just begun!

Later, at a local café, the waiter brought a delicious plate of khinkali and a big bowl of sauce. Emma, eager to add some flavor, accidentally poured all the sauce into a pot of soup. The soup's appearance was... unexpected.

They tentatively tasted the soup. Their eyes widened with surprise. "It's sweet and spicy at the same time!" Sofia exclaimed, giggling. Emma, with a mischievous grin, added, "Let's not tell anyone we made it!"

By the end of the day, their shoes were muddy, their hair a mess, and their stomachs full of delightful surprises. "What a mess!" Emma said, laughing. "Yes," Sofia replied, "but I've never been in such high spirits!"
