

Snowy's Lost Day

by Srivani Reddy

Maya received Snowy, her fluffy white bunny, after waiting for months. They were the best of friends, and Maya loved Snowy more than anything. On a beautiful sunny day, Maya had a party for Snowy on the lawn.

Maya carefully placed Snowy's cage on the lush green lawn, decorated with colorful balloons. She chatted with Snowy, telling him all about the party. Suddenly, a curious kid opened the cage door, and Snowy hopped away.

Maya watched in horror as Snowy disappeared into the tall, green grass. Tears streamed down her face as she realized her bunny was gone. She felt a deep sadness and worried about Snowy's safety.

The woods loomed ahead, full of shadows and unknown dangers. Maya imagined Snowy all alone, scared and possibly hungry. She pictured him searching for her, lost and confused in the unfamiliar environment.

Driven by love and determination, Maya decided to search for Snowy. She called his name, her voice echoing through the trees, hoping he would hear and come back. She knew she couldn't give up.

Finally, after hours of searching, Maya saw a flash of white. It was Snowy! He hopped towards her, and Maya scooped him up, hugging him tightly. They were finally reunited, their bond stronger than ever.
