

The Cat, The Man, and The Bag

Sunny Levi

A cozy cat, Pat, sat calmly on a soft, green rug. A kind man, Dan, sat nearby in a comfy chair, reading a book.

Suddenly, Pat the cat, quick as a flash, ran off the rug and out of sight. Dan the man looked up, a little surprised.

Dan the man had a bright red hat on his head. Pat the cat, being very sneaky, hid behind a large blue curtain, peeking out.

Dan the man, still wearing his red hat, decided to sit down again. He looked around for Pat, but the cat was well hidden.

Dan the man had a big, brown bag next to his chair. It was quite large and looked like it held many things.

Pat the cat, now out of hiding, sat curiously beside the big bag. What could be inside, the cat wondered?

Dan the man, with a little smile, hid a small, wooden bat inside his big brown bag. Pat watched with wide eyes.

A big, friendly dog, Max, came bounding into the room. Max had a wagging tail and looked very excited.

Max the dog, full of energy, ran straight towards the big brown bag. Pat the cat and Dan the man, startled, both ran away from the approaching dog.

Max the big dog, tired from all the running, finally sat down. Pat the cat and Dan the man also sat down, all together. A big, big nap for everyone!
