

The Great Escape of Kit and Friends

by Рузиля Нигматуллина

Kit woke up with a spark of adventure in his eyes. Today was the day! He hopped on his bike, excitement bubbling within him as he raced towards school. As he arrived, he saw his friends exchanging knowing glances, a secret plan brewing.

Inside the classroom, the math lesson droned on, but Kit, Max, and Dan were focused on a different kind of problem. They huddled at the back of the class, meticulously drawing their escape plan, step by step. Max voiced his concerns, but Kit's resolve was unwavering.

During recess, the first phase of their plan commenced. Max approached the teacher with a series of confusing questions, hoping to distract her. Meanwhile, Kit and Dan snuck towards the fence, their hearts pounding as they prepared to make their daring escape through the hole.

After lunch, a shadow of doubt fell over their plan as Max disappeared. When he returned, he was distant and silent. Unbeknownst to Kit and Dan, Max had a change of heart. As recess started they directed Max to his role in the escape, unaware of his betrayal.

On the playground, the final act played out. As Kit and Dan moved towards the fence, Max betrayed them, alerting the teacher. The teacher, furious, marched them to the principal's office. Their grand plan had crumbled.

Expelled from school and then from their homes, Kit, Max, and Dan found themselves together again, but this time in an abandoned building. It was not how they had envisioned their day, but in a way, their adventure was just beginning. They had each other and the experience of a lifetime, for better or worse.