

Akito's Big Day at the Doctor

by Roko Mamut

Akito woke up with a funny feeling in his tummy. The sun streamed through his window, but Akito felt a little bit worried. Today was the day he had to go to the doctor, and he wasn't sure what to expect.

Mommy helped Akito get ready, and they walked hand-in-hand to the doctor's office. The building looked big, but Akito held Mommy's hand tight. Mommy smiled and told him everything would be okay.

Inside, the waiting room was filled with colorful toys and friendly faces. Akito sat in a comfy chair and looked at a book. A friendly nurse called his name, and it was Akito's turn to go in.

The doctor, with a kind smile, greeted Akito. She had a gentle voice and showed Akito all the tools. Akito felt a little brave as the doctor checked his temperature and listened to his heartbeat.

Next, the doctor checked Akito's eyes and ears. It tickled a little, but Akito giggled. The doctor explained everything she was doing, making Akito feel safe and comfortable.

After the checkup, Akito got a sticker and a big hug from the doctor. On the way home, Akito realized that going to the doctor wasn't so scary after all, and he felt happy and healthy.
